In honor of the nation's bicentennial a 30-minute worship service will be conducted at 11 p.m. Sunday, July 4. All area churches and residents have been invited to attend the brief gathering, which will be held in front of the Courthouse. Seating will be provided for elderly residents who so desire.

According to the Rev. Allen Puffenberger, associate pastor of the Grace United Methodist Church in Washington C.H. and coordinator of the program, the event is being presented in recognition America's religious history.

"Many of our founding fathers came here for religious freedom, and much of the strength of our nation has been due to the diversity of religions present," Rev. Puffenberger stated.

Many congregations will be participating in the service, according to publicity chairman Conrad Bower, pastor of the Center Christian Church in Jeffersonville. He stated that the Fayette County Ministerial Association, which is sponsoring the event, stresses that the program is non-sectarian, and open to everyone.

The ministrial association has requested that upon completion of regular worship services, attending congregations walk to

WASHINGTON (AP) - Enough swine flu vaccine will be ready this summer to begin inoculating millions of adults shortly after Labor Day, U.S. health official say. But vaccination of younger Americans will likely be delayed pending further studies of side

Dr. Saul Krugman of New York University said Tuesday that dose and composition standards for the adult vaccines should be ready within two weeks so manufacturers can go into full production.

'We know now that in the age group of 25 or so and above it will be possible to recommend a dose that can be well tolerated," said Krugman, member of a Center for Disease Control advisory committee

Federal health advisory committees recommended Tuesday that the $135million vaccination program move ahead to immunize the nation's adults as soon as possible, but they advised delaying shots for children and young people until more studies are made. Dr. David J. Sencer, director of the U.S. Center for Disease Control (CDC) in Atlanta, said vaccination of the young should begin by late fall or early winter following studies of what type of vaccine at what doses should be used.

In their deliberations, the committees considered results released Monday of the first human trials of swine flu vaccines.

Those studies with more than 5,000 persons concluded that the vaccines appeared safe and effective in adults. However, they showed side effects in children were higher than expected with the most effective vaccines. While these side effects — including mild fever, general malaise and headache - were no more severe than with other flu vaccines and showed in only a small percentage of children, researchers said a mass-immunization program would leave too many youngsters affected.

Further tests with children will be completed in August, the committees said, and then a program for younger Americans can be put together.

An A-strain of influenza virus dubbed swine flu - surfaced at Ft. Dix, N.J., last winter and scientists say it could reoccur in the general population in future flu seasons. This flu is similar to one that in 1918 killed 20 millions persons throughout the world.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democratic congressmen are expected to approve a series of changes in House payroll practices and to recommend that Rep. Frank Thompson take over as chairman of the House Administration Committee. The 287-member Democratic caucus proposal because Republicans have already introduced a bill to do nearly the same thing

Obey said the proposals would give the House and the public a full accounting of how every member spends his office money, but he said they would not prevent such abuses as Miss Ray has charged.

his responsibility. Democratic Whip John McFall and caucus Chairman Phillip Burton, both of California, contended the move would concentrate too much power into the hands of the speaker. Red Rome celebrates elections

ROME (AP) - "Rome is red and nationally despite strong Communist Italy will be," thousands of Communists chanted Tuesday night as they celebrated their victory in Rome's municipal elections.

Tens of thousands marched from the party headquarters to the city hall a block away on the Capitoline Hill. Holding hands, they danced around the square Michelangelo designed. Some climbed up on the equestrian statue of Emperor Marcus Aurelius to decorate it with hammer-and-sickle stickers and gains, but in Rome the Communists won 30 of the municipal council's 80 seats to 27 for the Christian Democrats.

The vote was 676,618 or 35.5 per cent for the Communists, 630,776 or 33.1 per cent for the Christian Democrats, and more than 600,000 for seven other parties. The Christian Democrats were the largest party in 1971 with 28 per

No party has won a majority in Rome since World War II, but the Christian Democrats have always led the voting and controlled the city government by forming coalitions with other non-Communist parties. The Communists said now they would try to form the coalition and take over, as they already have in Turin, Milan, Venice, Genoa,

Bologna, Florence and Naples - every other major city on the Italian mainland.

The Roman vote was another pointed rebuff to Pope Paul VI, for the Pope is the Bishop of Rome, and local parish priests and Catholic groups were mobilized to try to contain the Communist

But with less than a third of the city going to Sunday mass regularly, fewer and fewer voters respond to papal appeals. Instead they listened to the Communists' promise to bring to Italy's capital the social-minded, efficient administration that has made Bologna, northern Italy's Communist showpiece for 30 years, a widely acclaimed model city.

Kissinger meets to avert racial war

MUNICH, West Germany (AP) -Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger and South African Prime Minister John Vorster begin talks today that Kissinger says he hopes will help avert a racial war in southern Africa

Kissinger will try to enlist Vorster's help in steering the white-minority government of Rhodesia into negotiations to transfer control to the country's 6.1 million blacks within two

Although the two-day meeting in the forests of Bavaria was originally planned to advance the Ford administration's new campaign against the white regime in Rhodesia, the black uprising in South Africa in the past week has focused public interest much more on what Kissinger says to Vorster about his rejection of majority rule in his own country

At a news conference Tuesday in Paris, Kissinger denied that the meeting was an expression of U.S. sympathy toward South Africa's white minority.

He said he was seeing Vorster at the unanimous suggestion of 40 black African countries

"It is in this spirit and not in any sense of an endorsement of anything that is going on in South Africa - quite the contrary - that I am meeting the South African prime minister," Kissinger declared

He criticized Vorster's government for its "violent" response to the black rioting in which at least 140 persons were killed and more than 1,100 in-

He also reiterated the Ford administration's distaste for apartheid, the South African government policy of racial separation and black repression.

The U.S. government "is attempting to move matters to a solution through negotiations rather than through violence." Kissinger said, "and it will attempt to do what it can to avoid outside intervention and to permit a solution in which African problems are solved by African nations.

The defense was expected to rest its

Contradicting defense as well as prosecution testimony, Bronson said McClure was never given any "free blows" during the bouts, nor was he ever knocked down or struck while on the ground. Free blows are punches left open to an opponent by the victim.

He also said that he thought McClure was faking injuries during the pugilstick bouts last Dec. 6, including when he was struck in the head and fell into a

"The blow he received, I didn't think was really that forceful," he said. "I thought he was faking and so did the other recruits.'

Until the unit was abolished with McClure's death, Bronson headed the platoon's "incentive section," a punishment unit for what Bronson called "marginal recruits.'

Martian landing sites studied

one time

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Photos of the Martian site chosen for Viking 1's July 4 landing streamed in from space the Jet Propulsion Laboratory, where scientists will study them closely to make sure the area is safe for the rocket's landing. The 58 photos were taken in about six minutes Tuesday by Viking's twin cameras from its newly established orbit. They came to earth late Tuesday and early today via radio transmission.

"We've made a lot of estimates (of the nature of the surface) from what little evidence we have, and the proof of the pudding is starting to come in today," said Dr. Harold Masursky. He is a member of the Viking orbiter photography team and is a U.S. Geological Survey scientist.

The landing site is called Chryse. It's a basin area at the mouth of a huge valley where water may have flowed at

Pieced together in a photo mosaic, the pictures will be studied by geologists to determine what the surface is made of and whether boulders, potholes or soft sand pose any hazards for the three-legged Viking lander, which will separate from the mother ship.

For the rest of June, the spacecraft will circle the planet - and pass the landing area - once a day. Mars is about half the size of earth but its day, called a "sol" by scientists, is slightly longer than earth's: 24.6 hours. Also on Tuesday, Viking studied infrared radiation emitted and reflected from the landing site. Such measurements tell geologists about the thermal properties of the surface and give clues to the composition of the rocks and soil.

Another instrument examined the thin atmosphere of Mars for traces of water vapor. There have been encouraging signs that such vapor water in its gaseous form - may be more abundant than had been calculated from earlier observations. Such findings could slightly improve the chances of finding life on Mars.

Masursky said liquid water is not believed to exist on Mars because of the planet's low atmospheric pressure. But near Chryse and many other places on the planet are features that have the unmistakable look of dry channels that were carved by flowing water.

If water was once abundant on Mars, he said, the atmosphere must once have been heavier - providing enough pressure to keep water in its liquid

"Something must have been different," he said, "and we'd like to find out what it was.'

Market lapses in decline

NEW YORK (AP) - The stock market lapsed into a broad decline today amid disappointment at the Dow Jones industrial average's inability to hold above the 1,000 level Tuesday.

The Dow average of 30 blue chips fell about 4 points in the early going, and losers took a 2-1 lead over gainers among New York Stock Exchange-list-

The market's decline marked the seventh time this year it has retreated from just above the 1,000 point in the Analysts said the impulse to sell appeared to be aggravated by the government's report Tuesday morning that its consumer price index rose in May at its sharpest rate in six months.

Today's early prices included IU International, down 1/8 at 107/8; Safeway Stores, off 1/8 at 41, and Dart Industries, unchanged at 351/8 On Tuesday the Dow Jones industrial average dropped 9.82 to 997.63, ending a three-day stay above the 1,000 mark. Losers outpaced gainers by about an 8-5 margin among NYSE-listed issues, and the exchange's composite index was down .39 at 55.14. Big Board volume was a moderately active 21.15 million shares.

The American Stock Exchange market value index lost .35 to 104.70.

Desert ecology threat

Off-road vehicle enthusiasts tend to scorn claims that they may do serious environmental harm. The fact is that, especially in Western desert regions, such harm may be not only serious but very longlasting. Even in areas where the ecology is less fragile than that of the desert, motorcycles and the like may do heavy damage.
As for the desert, consider the report by two U.S. Geological Survey scientists in the magazine California Geologist. After the

Barstow-Las Vegas motorcycle race

in the Mojave Desert in 1974 they walked over the course and found severe destruction of vegetation and other barriers to erosion. They say "it may take centuries" for the Mojave to recover. All who cherish America's natural heritage have a stake in keeping the off-roaders within sensible bounds.

If the air can carry all manner of discombobulating waves, there is ample reason to believe that some way may eventually be found to disarrange the electromagnetic circuits of reentry vehicles containing nuclear warheads. In which case, the days of the intercontinental ballistic missile would be numbers. The ICBM would be duds. The problem comes down to timing: What country will be the first to come up with the discombobulating antimissile device?

but it is scary enough in a world in which embassies can be jammed by microwave activity. The paper in question speaks of "psychotronic weapons." The phrase was new to me. A psychotronic warhead fired at an incoming missile would render the electronics of the reentry vehicle inert. Aimed at a human being-say at a pilot in an incoming bombing plane the device would disarrange the lifesustaining portion of his biological system. A psychotronic curtain would protect the first country to achieve it, leaving it free to terrorize everyone

In 1960 Khrushchev announced that the Soviets had a new weapon that could wipe out all life on earth. The retired army officer whose paper I am quoting thinks that Khrushchev had the psychotronic warhead in mind. It would wipe out life, but would leave phycisal structures unimpaired. Thus a conqueror armed with the psychotronic weapon could inherit the economic establishment of an advanced country even in the act of ridding that country of its inhabitants.

The retired army officer says that psychotronic weapons have been developed and exist." He also says "the U.S. does not have psychotronic weapons that Moscow has gotten the jump on us if we believe him.

I'd like to think that U.S. scientist can match anything that has been turned out by Soviet Research and Development. I wouldn't have believed in the laser-guided "smart" bomb, but we got in in time for use in the last stages of the Vietnam war. Every day we hear of some new military marvel.

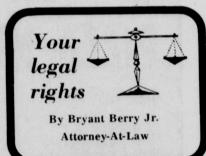

The story set forth by the New York military expert, Drew Middleton, about an explosive "mine" that can be set on the ocean floor with a programmed ability to distinguish between American and Soviet submarines sounds like black magic. If what Middleton tells us is true, we can bottle up the Soviet submarine fleet by sowing the new device thinkly between Iceland and Norway, and at the choke points of the Mediterranean and Baltic seas. It all strains credulity, but Middleton is not one to lie.

It strains credulity, too, that guided missiles exist that can be hefted and fired by single infantrymen to knock off tanks and armored cars and even jet airplances at a safe distance. If the Soviet submarines, tanks and planes can be countered by the new defensive weaponry, we can win through to a new safety. NATO can be revived.

The retired officer who the psychotronic warhead thinks the Soviets will strike at western Europe before the new defenses can be called into play. If he is right, we will know it before the year is out. We will also know it if and when a bictoriuous Russia, standing at the English Channel, warns us against a nuclear response by informing us that the psychotronic curtain will save Russia while the Soviet missiles are on their way to U.S. military targets.

The scenario is essentially incredible. But who, even a decade ago would have believed in the laser-guided weapon, the seabottom "mine" with a mind of its own, and the discombobulating microwave beam?

In any event, I'd like to hear more about the psychotronic anti-missile warhead.

CASE

Susan was a chambermaid in a hotel which was owned by Steinburg. During her work she found an envelope on the lobby floor which contained four $100bills. She turned the money over to Steinburg on his representation that he knew the guest who had lost it. Actually, Steinburg did not know who had lost the money and it was never reclaimed.

When Susan made a demand for the money Steinburg claimed it belonged to the hotel since it was lost there. Susan filed a lawsuit contending that since she found the money and it was never reclaimed, that she should be entitled to keep it.

Did the court award the money to Susan or Steinburg?

DECISION

The court held that Susan was entitled to the money. They stated that the general rule followed by most courts is that lost property becomes the property of the finder if the original owner cannot be located.

The fact that the $400 was lost in Steinburg's hotel did not give him any ownership rights to the money.

Ohio Perspective

Short-term school loans being pushed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) - The Rhodes Administration is pressing for passage of a bill that would authorize school districts to borrow on short term from private sources when their subsidies are delayed by the state.

Budget and Management Director William W. Wilkins said it is one of the tools needed to help Ohio meet "cash flow" problems during the fiscal year that begins July 1.

He explained that meeting the monthly bills of the state in some upcoming low revenue months probably will entail delays in school foundation payments to Ohio's more than 600 school districts.

As a result, he said, the bill by Rep. Frederick N. Young, R-38 Dayton, is needed to permit the schools to meet their obligations on time. So far, the bill hasn't received a hearing in the Democrat controlled legislature, and the lawmakers are in recess, at least until a July 20 meeting which could be just a skeleton session

Senate Majority Leader Oliver Ocasek, D-27 Akron, came out against the bill, saying it would cost the school accept an amendment through which the state would have to reimburse the districts for their interest costs.

"I hope the bill will have a hearing if we are forced to hold up school foundation payments" as part of the state's current belt tightening efforts, he said.

Under the bill, the school districts would operate on the same July 1 to June 30 fiscal year as the state instead of their present calendar year basis, at least for the purposes of school foundation payments.

Rather than being limited to borrowing which must be paid back by the end of the calendar year, the loans wouldn't have to be repaid until the following June 30.

Richard G. Sheridan, chief fiscal adviser to majority Democrats in the legislature, said he would be concerned about giving such authority to at least to some districts which "don't even know they are broke until they have to close down.

Blonde escapes, gorilla dies for N.Y. crowd

NEW YORK (AP) - The 40-foot gorilla lay prone and bleeding, dead after a 110-story fall from the north tower of the World Trade Center.

But the beautiful blonde who had escaped from the monster's grasp was very much alive as a crowd of 5,000 men, women and children surged forward to get a look at the dead gorilla.

The ape was of Styrofoam, rubber and horsehair. The blood was Karo syrup mixed with vegetable coloring. Dawn, the monster's erstwhile captive, was really actress Jessica Lange.

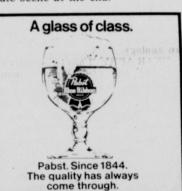

But the crowd was a real New York crowd, lured by newspaper ads for extras - unpaid - to take part in the filming of Dino de Laurentiis' $22 million remake of the 1933 classic, 'King Kong.

Even though unpaid and nonprofessional, the crowd had to do some acting - horror expressed at the falling gorilla.

The actual fall is being filmed in Hollywood with a mechanical monster, and the New York version of King Kong just lay there throughout the proceedings

A spokesman for the movie company said the scene at the foot of the World Trade Center would be filmed again tonight and Wednesday night at a cost for the three shootings of about $250,000

LOS ANGELES (AP) - If anyone ever needed an hour to showcase their talent in a TV variety show, you'd think would be the performer-packed Jackson family.

Yet the five brothers and three sisters who are starring in "The Jacksons" this summer on CBS-TV deliberately opted for a 30-minute format.

We were offered an hour but we decided to do half an hour," explains Michael Jackson, who soared to fame six years ago as lead singer of the Jackson Five. He's now all of 17.

The Jackson clan was offered a weekly series by ABC two years ago but Michael says they turned it down because they were just too busy recording and touring to devote themselves to a one-hour TV show each week.

They still are, he notes - another reason for the 30-minute format. The family was able to knock off the four CBS summer shows — the second of which airs tonight — in less than three

Jackson says the musical clan is more willing to accept a long-running series commitment now - "there's a TV craze goin' on" — but if CBS wants them as a midseason replacement this winter, it will have to take them at half

Homes priced beyond most buyers

NEW YORK (AP) — The average new single-family home now costs about $100,000.

Shocking as that price might be, it is a fact if you include the cost of financing which over the past 10 years has added much more to the price of housing than have building costs.

In 1966 a new single-family house cost about $25,000. If a $5,000 down payment were made it would leave $20,000 to be financed at 6 per cent for 25 years. Total cost: $43,661.

A comparable house in 1976 costs $45,000. After a $9,000, 20 per cent, downpayment, $36,000 would remain to be financed at 9 per cent for 25 years. Total cost: $99,636.

In terms of monthly payments, the 1966 purchaser must come up with $128.87 — generally rounded off to $129

- while the 1976 buyer has to pay a note of $302.12.

Stated starkly, the typical purchaser cannot afford the typical house, and no agency of government or private enterprise seems able to resolve the dilemma.

Builders have literally cut corners, reducing the size of models. They have cut out the extra bath and the fourth bedroom, have left attics unfinished, eliminated the garage, reduced the quality of cabinetry.

Individuals have resorted to their own devices. On a small scale, some companies offer kits to individuals capable of erecting their own homes. Many young couples have bought and refinished older, run down homes.

The over-all problem remains, however. A survey by "Professional Builder Magazine" indicates that at least 40 per cent of potential buyers in the age group to 34 years cannot afford to pay more than $35,000.

with costs of taxes, fuel, repairs and general maintenance all rising swiftly, in some instances much more sharply than the general inflation level.

Curiously, however, discussion of the problem seems to be absent from public debates, or at least treated with apathy. So long as it persisted, it seems that courage to face the issue seems to have waned.

In the political campaigns it appears to be hardly an issue at all, and yet there are no more basic needs than food, clothing and shelter. And quality shelter, a home of one's own, remains one of the great American aspirations.

Glenn favored as Carter's veep

By TOM DIEMER

Associated Press Writer COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) - Lt. Gov. Richard F. Celeste, who remained uncommitted throughout Democratic primary campaign, is now supporting Sen. John Glenn for vice president on a ticket headed by Jimmy

"I think John Glenn would be the strongest possible running mate for Carter," Celeste said in an interview Tuesday

Celeste, a potential gubernatorial candidate in 1978 and a leading light in the Ohio Democratic party, held to a doggedly neutral stance during the presidential primary season, right up to the June 8 Ohio election.

But after Carter's impressive victory in Pennsylvania on April 27, Celeste said he privately endorsed the former Georgia governor and became ever more enthusiastic about his candidacy as the primary campaign progressed.

He warmly introduced Carter at a large Statehouse rally here the week before the primary but claimed he would have done the same for the other candidates

The 38-year-old Cleveland native thinks Carter was able to tap the populist nerve that Fred Harris attempted unsuccessfully to locate in his illfated campaign. "He was able to build up a trust in people," Celeste said of the Carter appeal

Although he is generally regarded as more liberal than Carter or Glenn, the lieutenant governor insists he has no ideological qualms about supporting such a ticket

"I don't think you can categorize Carter as left or right," he said, "but the way he responds to issues, it's unfair to say he is a conservative." Celeste stayed neutral during the campaign, he said, out of deference to associates who worked for various candidates

So guarded was he in his position that his own brother, who managed Carter's Ohio effort, was not aware of his private support for Carter.

'He never told me," Ted Celeste said. "I had in the back of my mind all along that I could get him to change his mind and come around to Carter. He had also hoped to make use of the lieutenant governor's vaunted political organization, which has been held together in preparation for 1978.

"Celeste decided to support Glenn for vice president-but not to actively promote his candidacy—at a strategy session last week in his office with an inner circle of personal friends, past political advisors, and current staffers.

"I think my effort to pressure the Carter camp in support of one man would be counter-productive," Celeste said. "They have their list and in the end one man will make the decision. But he had informed Glenn personally that he is backing him, Celeste said, and will make his views know to Carter, if asked.

Corporate bribery bill cleared

By LAWRENCE L. KNUTSON Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) - A bill making overseas bribery by U.S. corporations illegal passed its first Senate test but remains under a constitutional cloud.

The bill approved Tuesday by the Senate Banking Committee was prompted by recent disclosures that U.S. corporations such as the Lockheed Aircraft Corp. have paid out millions of dollars in bribes to foreign officials and political parties to win sales.

By making it a U.S. crime for a corporation to bribe an official or foreign political party to stimulate or increase business, the bill would go far beyond a White House proposal that would require American companies to report such bribes to an U.S. government agency.

Under the White House proposal, there would be no U.S. criminal action as a result of reporting a bribe. However, the U.S. government might share the information with the foreign government involved or make the information public.

U.S. laws now make it illegal for American corporations to bribe American officials. But there are no U.S. laws covering bribes of foreign

Fayette County CETA program receives stay of execution

The Fayette County CETA program has received a stay of execution.

Slated to die June 30, the Comprehensive Employment Training Act program has been allocated supplemental funds which Washington D.C. bureaucrats claim extends the program through Jan. 30, 1977.

Although the program which employs 50 area residents will continue after June 30, the funds allocated are not sufficient to keep CETA alive through January. A more realistic extension date would be early September, according to Washington C.H. City Manager George H. Shapter.

Shapter met Tuesday with Sandy Crawford, field representative for the office of Manpower Development, to discuss the program.

Since the termination of Charles Tye's employment with the city, Shapter has shouldered the responsibility of administering the CETA program. Ms. Crawford is the state representative to Fayette and six other

Funds for the CETA program fall under either Title II or Title VI. Title II of the CETA program began in December, 1974. Title VI began the following January The supplemental appropriations were issued under Title II. Bills which would extend funding under each title are still buried in red tape in Washington D.C. Although they have been pending in Congress for several months, there has still been no action

Acceptance of some $72,000 in supplemental has required considerable paperwork for the city

At present, all CETA employes are listed under Title VI because only this title has had funds during the past several months. Since only Title II received additional funding, all employes will technically be terminated and then rehired under Title II.

Although it means little to the employes, it requires a good deal of administrative work; the work Shapter and Ms. Crawford were doing Tuesday. A statewide directive has ordered all

Being employed with CETA funds herself, Mrs. Crawford hopes the program will be refunded.

Shapter said he has not studied in depth the effect of an end to CETA funds but said it would clearly be disasterous to the city.

At present four Washington C.H. police dispatchers, one patrolman, one fireman and two persons in the income tax administration office are paid through CETA funds. Several other key positions in both the city and the county are filled by CETA employes.

If mass layoffs of CETA personnel occur in September, the city will be hard-pressed to fill the void. With a current budget "surplus" of less than $10,000, there can be little money spent to add these positions to the general fund operation, Shapter said. Although there is some federal aid available to individuals who are laid off through termination of CETA program, they are not eligible for state unemployment benefits. Federal funds for such unemployment have been set aside under the Supplemental Unemployment Assistance Ace, Ms. Crawford said, but it is wholely inadequate to cope with the

Carter says U.S. should abandon 'Lone Ranger' act

NEW YORK (AP) - Democratic presidential candidate Jimmy Carter said today the United States must abandon what he called its "Lone Ranger" foreign policy and organize free nations to share responsibility for "a just and stable world order. Carter, the Democrats' probable nominee, called for collective action by the world's democracies in "creative alliances" to help stabilize world prices, ease military tensions and combat hunger and poverty.

Carter painted his concept of "creative alliances" in broad strokes, giving few specific details. He said it is time to form a part-nership between North America, Western Europe and Japan, and that there is a need for increased unity and consultation with Israel, Australia, New Zealand and other democratic

Carter also said in a speech prepared for the Foreign Policy Association

-NATO forces must be reequipped with up-to-date weapons to balance modernized Warsaw Pact forces, but he said the costs must be shared by NATO partners, not borne solely by the United States, and that no effort should be spared to seek a balanced reduction of forces on both sides

-Increased cooperation between East and West is desirable "but we will never seek accommodation at the expense of our own national interests or the interests of our allies.

Wealthy to pay despite loopholes

WASHINGTON (AP) - A plan to require wealthy Americans to pay some income tax no matter how many tax loopholes they use is nearing approval in the Senate.

The plan, approved earlier by the Senate Finance Committee, would cost the wealthy $1 billion a year. A bloc of liberal senators is seeking to raise that figure by $200 million and apply the tougher provisions to corporations as well as individuals.

Strengthening this "minimum tax" is a key element of the big tax bill being debated by the Senate.

The minimum tax was enacted in 1969 in an effort to assure that persons using such shelters would pay some income tax. Despite this, it was disclosed earlier this year that 244 Americans earning more than $200,000 paid no income tax in 1974 because of large deductions

Making the minimum tax even tougher than the committee wants is the most important part of a package of tax amendments offered by the liberals. They were beaten Tuesday in most efforts to eliminate tax shelters for high-income investors.

On a 53-40 vote, the Senate indicated it prefers the milder tax-shelter crackdown approved by the Finance Committee, which would raise investors' taxes by $165 million in 1977, a figure that would drop gradually to $126 million by 1981.

Task force proposals led to Rhodes' victory in '74

By MIKE FLYNN Record-Herald Editor

two Controversy raised over proposals recommended by a local government services commission were contributing factors in the election of Ohio Gov. James A. Rhodes in 1974, according to a Washington C.H. man who served on the commission.

Laurence A. (Bucky) Dumford, 635 Warren Ave., said Tuesday night that proposals regarding the creation of service districts and planning regions in Ohio and the appointment of certain elected county officials helped Rhodes to defeat John J. Gilligan in the 1974 gubernatorial election.

Dumford, who made the statement during a Washington C.H. Lions Club meeting in the Country Club, served on the task force which was appointed by Gilligan to study local government services and recommend improvements over a two-year period. The Ohio County Commissioners Association recommended Dumford for the appointment on the local government commission operated on a $500,000 budget.

Dumford, a former three-term county commissioner who will be seeking the seat now held by J. Herbert Perrill in the November general election, said many of the reports completed the task force have been criticized and discarded by the current administration, but he expects many to become law in the future.

The most critical of the proposals recommended by the local government services commission was the appointment of the county engineer, rather than maintaining the position as an elected office.

"I've been accused of being antiengineer, but nothing could be further from the truth," Dumford said.

He said Ohio is the only state in the nation which still elects its county engineers and that he supported the proposal because of a "separation of commissioners responsible for highway programs in the state's 88 counties, but he said it presents a problem since the engineer is also an elected official and the Dumford said there are two distinct sectors of county government. One is the policy-making branch such as county commissioners, and the other is officials who carry out state policy at the local level such as the county auditor who assesses taxes not only for the county, but for the city, and

The commission also recommended the appointment of county coroners. and the appointment and creation of county law departments to replace prosecuting attorneys. Dumford said he opposes the creation of county legal departments, since a new law permitting prosecuting attorneys to employ assistants (such as in Fayette County) was approved, thus providing the county commissioners with adequate legal advice.

The establishment of service districts and planning regions for the state was recommended by the commission in an effort to "de-centralize" state government and bring it "closer to local people.

'To me it makes sense to study problems in an area larger than the county," Dumford said.

In preparing a report on problems affecting Ohio's counties, Dumford said that the commission found that most state residents felt close to the Ohio Department of Transportation because of easy access to the department through district offices. But, he said Ohio residents interviewed were frustrated because they felt other state departments and offices "were too far away from them.

the service districts and planning regions would have had built-in protections. He noted that Fayette County's regional representatives would have been appointed by Washington C.H. City Council or the Fayette County Board of Commissioners. The representatives would have had only recommending powers, and no taxing authority. If the representatives did not agree with certain recommendations they would have had the option to withdraw.

He said all counties participating in Dumford pointed out that the commission reported that municipal governments throughout the state are capable of delivering efficient services if they have qualified elected officials, have a decent tax base for operation and are able to communicate with the taxpayers.

The commission recommended that township governments should be retained, improved and upgraded.

The major changes included the elimination of the township clerk as elected official and appoint him to a position of township manager in with more than 5,000 residents allow the trustees to impose an income tax subject to a vote by township residents, and provide township trustees with "implied powers" in order that they could govern under a broader scope of the

The need for improvements and change at the county government level were recommended by the commission, according to Dumford. A mandatory alternative form of government, which would have given county commissioners more power, was proposed, Dumford said.

Under the alternative form of government, the appointment of a county manager or supervisor would have been mandated.

Another change would have been the abolishment of the county treasurer's office. The treasurer's office would have been absorbed by the county

Dumford said he opposed the change regarding the treasurer since it was 'taking something away from the because there is always competition for the office, and because it did not save money and was "giving away some of the needed checks and balances" of the county government

More commissioners for larger Ohio counties was also recommended, Dumford said. Counties with up to 100,000 population would have had three to five commissioners while Cuyahoga County would have had 11

First Revolutionary War tomb dedicated

BOLIVAR, Ohio (AP) - America's first tomb for an unknown soldier of the American Revolution will be dedicated Saturday

The Ohio Historical Society and the state American Revolution Bicentennial Advisory Commission conceived and financed the project, which will hold the remains of a young, unidentified soldier killed during the defense of Fort Laurens in 1779.

His body was found during an archeological dig at the Tuscarawas County site in 1973. Fort Laurens was the only fort built in Ohio during the Revolution and was manned from 1778 to 1779.

The National Guard and The Old Guard of Washington, D.C. will conduct full military funeral services beginning 11 a.m. Ceremonies presenting posthumous awards to the unknown soldier are scheduled afterward.

Ohio Sens. John Glenn and Robert Taft Jr. have introduced a resolution which would provide national recognition of the shrine.

New identy program adopted by BancOhio

nounced today that BancOhio Corporation and its 41 member banks have adopted a new program of statewide identification including a symbol and corporate logo

Robert G. Stevens, president and chief executive officer of the $3.2 billion bank holding company, said that over the next few months BancOhio's program will encompass all 214 banking locations across Ohio.

"BancOhio is a truly statewide banking organization," Stevens said, "and when this program is fully implemented, that fact is going to be quite evident. People will see the BancOhio name and symbol all across the state.'

BancOhio's new symbol features a stylized tree contained in three O's echoing the word Ohio. The symbol represents a combination of growth and dynamism of both the state of Ohio and BancOhio, Stevens said.

According to the new identity program, the symbol, the corporate name and the bank name will be used on signs, in advertising, as well as on booklets, forms and checks. The BancOhio name and symbol will be accompanied by individual bank names in a consistent type style. This will result in a BancOhio "look" for all the banks, further reinforcing the common identity

The name of each individual bank will continue to be used in a prominent manner. "We want to emphasize," Stevens said, "that our banks are local, individually chartered banks, with their own presidents and board of directors who make decisions right in town. Shares of stock in BancOhio are widely held by people in each community in which we operate. BancOhio banks, therefore, are often more locally owned than any other bank in their communities. We want our indentity to tell our hometown Ohioans that what we're doing is combining local responsiveness with statewide strength," Stevens pointed out.

Commenting upon the future, Stevens said, "Our customers already enjoy credit card interchange with at many of our banks, and we expect to expand this convenience feature through the entire system within a year. When we do, available credit for BancOhio customers will be no further than our nearest facility, and that isn't very far, regardless of where you are in

First National Bank of Washington C.H., is the local affiliate of BancOhio Corporation. SPECIAL MUSIC SET

Special patriotic music rendered by some of the outstanding recording artists of today's musical world will be featured in Muzak programs heard in Washington C.H. and other central Ohio areas during the period June 27 through July 4.

The special music is Muzak's salute to the U.S. Bicentennial, according to Patrick J. Kirwin, president and general manager of Planned Music, Inc., franchise for Muzak, in central Ohio. The tunes will be heard in nearly 1.000 Muzak business and industrial subscriber locations in the area.

More than a dozen of the best known American patriotic tunes are among the selections archaeologist and his interest in prehistoric Indian mounds.

The Rotarians learned of Dr. Woodmansee's excavation of an Adena culture burial mound on a farm in the Deer Creek Reservoir area.

Dr. Woodmansee, a Rotary Club member, started excavation on the burial 10 years ago and spent some five and one-half years on the project.

He explained that there were nine different types of historic Indian cultures in Ohio dating back to 1,000 B.C., the most notable being the Adena, Hopewell and Fort Ancient cultures.

The last of the mound builders were still in Ohio as late as 1650, and the prehistoric Indians evolved into Indian tribes. He said the Shawnees were the most predominant Indian tribe in Ohio

Mounds were constructed in various sizes, but the three basic ones were efigy mounds, similar to Serpent Mound in Adams County, ceremonial mounds and burial mounds

The tree-covered Adena burial mound excavated by Dr. Woodmansee was 25 feet high and some 240 feet in diameter

He said the excavation of the mound was a major undertaking because of the fact that he did the work in his spare time. Dr. Woodmansee said he believes the Adena Indians carried dirt in baskets to construct the mound since dirt was unearthed bearing the imprints of a wooven basket.

Artifacts uncovered in the mound including bones, flint, arrowheads, flint blades, pieces of copper, a rare spearthrowing handle and various tools were displayed by Dr. Woodmansee at the Rotary Club meeting. He said no bows and arrows were found.

From what Dr. Woodmansee said he could determine, most of the Indians buried in the mound were of mediumstature with powerful arms and 20 to 40 years old. One skeleton uncovered was about six feet, four inches in height, and another appeared to be about 60 years of age

The highly-honored Indians were buried in the mound with their heads pointed toward the east.

Dr. Woodmansee pointed out that the Adena culture inhabitated Ohio for a period of over 1700 years before the area became overcrowded with the arrival of the Hopewells.
In closing, Dr. Woodmansee said the pre-historic Indian cultures must be respected since they were possibly the first home builders, the first farmers and the first people to be involved with ceramics.

The meeting was conducted by Dr. George Pommert, club vice president in the absence of president William E. Williams.

It was announced during the meeting that the club will be chartering a bus to see the Cincinnati Reds play the Philadelphia Phillies Thursday at Riverfront Stadium. The bus will depart from the Union 76 service station, corner of Market and Main streets seven games and pulled the Indians back within seven games of the firstplace Yanks in the AL East. Red Sox 6, Orioles 5

In Baltimore, where a curfew was threatening to halt the Orioles-Red Sox game, Manager Darrell Johnson's strategy enabled Boston to beat the clock.

Fred Lynn on third base and Doyle on first, Bob Darwin - who had hit a firstinning grand-slam home run - was batting for the Red Sox. On a 2-2 pitch, Johnson sent Doyle flying to second.

Darwin sent a hot grounder up the middle. Shortstop Mark Belanger, who ranged deep behind second to stop Darwin's grounder, didn't see Doyle coming his way.

If he had, he'd have thrown to first for the third out. Instead, he flipped to second baseman Bobby Grich, trying for a forceout — but Doyle beat the ball to the bag.

Darwin just beat Grich's throw to first as Lynn crossed the plate.

A's 5, Rangers 2 "I guess you could compare us to the Chicago White Sox teams of the '60s," Manager Chuck Tanner said after Oak land beat Texas on eight hits-the most the A's have managed in the last 10 days. "We have speed and good pitching and we use it the best we can."

The A's stole four bases and got good pitching from Dick Bosman and Paul Lindblad to win their third game in the last four. One of their few big shots was Ken McMullen's homer.

White Sox 14, Royals 8 Darwin wasn't the only grand-slammer in the AL Tuesday night. Kevin Bell of the White Sox had one and it hurt the Royals a lot more than Darwin's hurt the Orioles. It was an inside-the-park shot that had Kansas City rookie left fielder Tom Poquette charging into the wall literally. He crashed head-first into the fence and was carried unconscious from the field. The Rookie of the Year candidate with the .347 batting average suffered a fractured left cheekbone and will be out at least three weeks. Chicago had two other homerun heroes in its 16-hit attack. Jim Spencer had a three-run shot in the first inning and Jorge Orta unloaded a two-run belt in the fourth.

Tigers 10, Brewers 4

The Tigers didn't have as many bombs as Chicago, but they had more bullets, getting 20 hits off five Milwaukee pitchers. Bill Freehan, Alex Johnson and Tom Veryzer had three apiece with Veryzer and Aurelio Rodriguez knocking in two runs apièce.

Hank Aaron hit his 752nd career home run, his seventh this year and fifth in his last eight games for Milwaukee.

Twins 10, Angels 6

Minnesota had its share of long and short-ball men. Rod Carew had a threerun homer and two singles, Butch Wynegar doubled and singled twice and Dan Ford hit a two-run homer and a single to lead the Twins' 17-hit barrage against the Angels.

Denny, 3-4, registered his fourth career with four runs in the seventh and added

"As soon as I let it go, I knew it was a ball," he said.

With the slip of that pitch, the San Diego left-hander let a National League record fall out of his grasp - Christy Mathewson's monumental no-walk record established 63 years ago. The free pass to Marc Hill leading off the eighth inning of Tuesday night's 4-2 victory over the San Francisco Giants stopped Jones' streak at 68 walkless

A few moments before, he had pulled into a tie with the great Mathewson of the New York Giants by striking out Darrell Evans to close out the seventh inning. But the streak had been weighing heavily on his broad shoulders

"I fought off the pressure for a long time but about the fifth inning it caught up with me," said Jones. "Subconsciously I'm sure it affected me. It's kind of disappointing to go that long and then end up walking the guy."

Jones, who had faced 296 batters before the pass to Hill, then lost all control by walking his second batter of the inning, Larry Herdnon. Luckily it came after a double play had wiped out

Hill and caused Jones no trouble. Pirates 10, Cubs 7 Rennie Stennett smashed five hits least the same height or better to win" an Olympic gold medal. But the 24-year-old medical student's record-shattering vault was only one of the highlights of a big day at the U.S. Olympic track and field trials

Tuesday: -Marathon champion Shorter, Craig Virgin and Garry Bjorklund finished 1-2-3 in a 10,000-meter final that produced four of the fastest times ever in the U.S. -Millard Hampton, a powerfully built 19-year-old headed for UCLA next look like Cy Young or Grover Cleveland Alexander, but that's what we're doing," said Sutton after the Cincinnati Reds swept a two-game series Tuesday night with back to back 4-hitters to drop the Dodgers into third, 51/2 games behind.

The Reds 6-0 victory and Randy Jones' 13th victory put San Diego in second place.

It capped another nightmarish June for the Dodgers. A year ago they entered June leading Cincinnati by a game and a half. A month later they trailed by eight. "If they don't close the season next week, we'll be okay," said Manager humor in the midst of a four-game losing streak. Cincinnati's Fred Norman, squeezed out of the rotation earlier this month, made a bid to reclaim a starting spot with his first shutout since April 18.

The 33-year-old lefthander ran his lifetime record at Riverfront Stadium to 28-6, but not without some shaky moments.

Reds Norman weaves shutout

'When I warmed up I was skeptical. I didn't get it together until the last couple minutes. I didn't think I'd last the first inning," said Norman, who upped his record to 5-1.

Once he settled down, "it was like sitting in a rocking chair," said batterymate Johnny Bench, who broke out of an 0-for-16 slump with three hits to spark three uprisings. "All he threw were strikes. Hot-hitting Doug Flynn drove in

Olympic trial plan

EUGENE, Ore. (AP) - The United recommends subsidies for these States should abandon the concept of a single, one-shot Olympic trial for its track and field athletes and begin picking the U.S. squad two years before the Olympics

That's the idea being pushed by Dr. Leroy Walker, the head coach of the men's track team that will compete at Montreal starting July 17.

Walker long has advocated selecting the U.S. team well in advance, but the subject heated up again last Saturday when sprinter Steve Williams, one of the world's fastest men, was injured and failed to make the American team. "Under my plan," said Walker, "if you have an injured athlete, you would do with him what any good coach would do - you'd rest him to make him whole. We would not have had to chance this situation with Williams being forced to run in the trials.

Asked if he'd like to select the entire team by committee rather than by a one-shot performance, Walker said, 'No, I think the athletes should detemine themselves, by their performances, who makes the team. If I were a commissioner, like in the National Football League, I'd already have the team chosen before I came out

The former head track coach at North Carolina Central University proposed a flexible program that might start two years before the Olympics.

"For example, in 1978, we might have a major track meet. Call it the USA National Championships, or something. Then the top eight runners and the top 12 field event finishers would be considered our national team on call.

"We could then follow them closely, help coach them and if the President's

Tournament

There will be an ASA sanctioned Church Team tournament at the Cederville Community Park on Saturday July 3 and Monday July 5, with no games on Sunday. Individual trophies will be awarded to the winning Entry fee for the tourney is $40 with the deadline for entering on June 27. Interested teams should contact Harry Hartzell at (513) 766-5356.

Church League

Coming up with two runs in the sixth, First Christian edged Fayette Bible 12-11 in Church League action.

Donahue and Snyder tripled for First Christian while Ready tripled for Fayette Bible. Estep was the winning pitcher while Cobb took the loss.

people, as I think they will, then there will be a recognizable group of athletes who would be eligible for the subsidies. He said he would not eliminate the final Olympic Trials altogether.

"There should be a trials setup, but it should have some flexibility built into it." he said. Williams, heavily favored to make the team, has asked — through his coach, Brooks Johnson — to be considered for a spot on the U.S. 400-meter relay team. "Yes, I would say that if he was completely healthy he would be a fantastic anchor man," Walker said. 'You'd be hard-pressed to find anyone in the world better than he is on the anchor of a relay, when he gets that 20 meters of acceleration

However, Walker said present rules do not permit him to put Williams or anyone else on a relay team unless he or she already is a member of the squad in at least one event.

Alston said the skid "is nothing that we can't overcome with some hitting. We haven't scored any runs in a week.

'You take Cey out of the lineup and it's hard to score runs," said Alston. Reds Manager Sparky Anderson has his doubts about the Dodgers. "Without Lopes and Cey, it's going to be tough on them," he said after the Reds notched their 15th victory in 21 games this month.

A revitalized screwball helped Norman master the Dodgers, who had held an 11-4 career edge over him. Norman wasn't so sure he would be around long enough to find his long lost

He got the feeling his days were numbered in Cincinnati after being relegated to the bullpen late last year and again this season

"I had doubts whether I'd be here

this year," said Norman. A crowd of 39,000 saluted his efforts with a standing ovation in the eighth, but Norman didn't realize what was going on. "I thought somebody had just got a base hit. I didn't notice what was happening because I didn't want to lose the concentration I had going-that

He drove in a run in the Reds' threerun fourth with a sacrifice fly. Sutton, 6-7, absorbed the loss. "People picking up the paper are going to say I got the heck kicked out of me, but that is pretty far from the truth."

The Reds open a two-game stand against sizzling Philadelphia tonight, with 6-foot-7 rookie Santo Alcala, 6-2, facing Steve Carlton, 6-3.

There is an ambience about the place reminiscent of a less complicated past when the most important things in life were cars and girls and boys and double-decker hamburger sandwiches.

Judy Sanders knows the scene well. She was a car hop at the Thunderbird as a high school sophomore back in 1962. Thirteen years later she is married to John Sanders, the manger of the Thunderbird.

Judy, 29, and the mother of taking food orders and supervising the car hops.

"At least once or twice a month," she says, "somebody will come up to the window and say, 'Wow, you're still here and the Thunderbird is still here.' It's amazing to them because everything has changed ... but the Thunderbird is still the same old place they remember as teen-agers.

'The teen-agers who came here years ago are in their 30s going on 40 now. The Thunder-bird is the place they used to hang out; whether they went to the drive-in or wherever, everyone ended up at the Thunder-bird."

A tall sign with two revolving neon birds, one red and the other blue, towers over the place. There are spaces for 42 cars, with speakers for customers to transmit their food orders over the "servus-fone" inside. The car hops, Maureen and Laura, deliver the orders on brown trays that attach to the car

"They usually collect around 10 o'clock and that's when the parking lot is full," said one regular. "They go around three times, first to check out who's here and then to find the best seats.'

Owner Botsaris, who has seen the crowd change over the years, is worried about today's young people. The Thunderbird is still a "fun place," he says, but the teen-agers are not as

"jovial" as they once were.
"In the '50s ... I could walk up to a carload of kids who were rowdy and just say to them, 'Cut it out,' and they would listen. Today's kids are more aggressive ... to be perfectly honest, I'm just afraid to pull the kids out of cars and call their parents," he said.

The Thunderbird is a type of restaurant rapidly disappearing in the Northeast, probably because of the cold weather that limits business in the winter.

Most remaining car hop locations are found in the South and West, according to William P. Fisher of the National Restaurant Association.

"As the public became more sophisticated in terms of its dining-out eating habits, they demanded a movement away from the girls on roller skates and the trays on the side of the cars," said Fisher in his Chicago office. Botsaris acknowledges that his business is off 10 to 15 per cent from a decade ago, largely because of the emergence of fast food chains like Mc-Donald's, Gino's and Burger Chef. The Thunderbird actually loses money from December through February, he says, but sales skyrocket in summer. On a good night, the drive-in will sell 400 of its most popular item, the Thunderburger - two three-ounce beef patties on a triple decker sesame roll with shredded lettuce, cheese and a

Entertainer too upset after rape

NEW YORK (AP) - Connie Francis' psychiatrist has testified that a motel rape has left her too emotionally upset to resume her career "at least for the next 10 years.

The 37-year-old singer is suing the Howard Johnson chain for $5 million, charging lack of security led to the attack by an intruder in her motel room at Westbury on Long Island in November 1974.

Dr. Lawrence Kaplan, associate visiting neurologist at Mount Sinai Hospital, testified Tuesday that the rape had left an "emotional scar," and he added: 'The prognosis for her resuming her career is guarded.' Miss Francis became upset as the psychiatrist testified about his sessions with her, saying she felt "ashamed and dirty" after the attack and shunned relations with her husband.

The husband, Joseph Garzilli, escorted Miss Francis from the courtroom, then returned to take the stand as the final witness for Miss Francis

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Still more remodeling is planned at the 142-yearold Ohio Penitentiary here as a new reception center already underway nears completion. The new center, scheduled for occupancy July 12, will be housed in the five east cellblocks on which refurbishing began in March, said Robert Baker, information officer for the Department of Rehabilitation and Correction

But, Baker said, when all remodeling is complete the facility could house about 1,700 prisoners, although he says there are no plans now to use the facility for inmates other than hospital patients and those being processed through reception.

Local murder suspect 'mentally incompetent'

By GEOFF MAVIS Record-Herald Staff Writer

A Fayette County woman, charged with the March 14 murder of her husband in a Washington C.H. home, has been committed to the Lima State Hospital.

Alice M. Reed, 36, of 7048 Stafford Road, has been deemed "not now mentally competent to stand trial" by an order filed in Fayette County Common Pleas Court. Mrs. Reed was transferred to Lima State Hospital on

She had been charged by Washington C.H. police officers March 15 with the aggravated murder of her husband, Raymond C. Reed, 42. Reed's body had been found the previous night in the home of his brother Francis Reed, 642

Reed, who had been residing in his brother's home for some time, had been employed as an office manager for the Barnhart Oil Co., 304 E. Market

He and Mrs. Reed were the parents of three children. Represented by John C. Bryan, a Washington C.H. attorney, Mrs. Reed had entered pleas of "not guilty" and "not guilty by reason of insanity" during the arraignment in Washington C.H. Municipal Court on March 26. She was incarcerated in the Fayette County jail in lieu of a $100,000 bond.

In the course of her incarceration in the Fayette County jail, she was taken to Columbus and Cincinnati for psychiatric examinations by several specialists and at various medical clinics. The psychiatric observations were conducted on behalf of motions by the prosecution and defense as a result of Mrs. Reed's particular pleas.

At the conclusion of Mrs. Reed's psychiatric examinations, she was considered to be presently insane, and unfit to stand trial. The prosecution's murder charge against her was dropped, pending her rehabilitation at Lima State Hospital. If she is considered rehabilitated, she will stand trial in Fayette County Common Pleas Court on the aggravated murder charge.

According to assistant Fayette County prosecuting attorney John H. Roszmann, no other suspects in Reed's murder are under investigation, and the case is now closed, unless Mrs. Reed is rehabilitated.

Approximately a week before her admittance to Lima State Hospital, Mrs. Reed had been transferred from the Fayette County jail to the Franklin County jail. She had been taken to Franklin County jail on a court order after Fayette County Sheriff Donald L. Thompson stated that presenting a risk of harm to herself while incarcerated

For the first time in Fayette combined congre-services will take County. gational place on the Courthouse steps during Independence Day.

In honor of the nation's bicentennial a 30-minute worship service will be conducted at 11 p.m. Sunday, July 4. All area churches and residents have been invited to attend the brief gathering, which will be held in front of the Courthouse. Seating will be provided for elderly residents who so desire.

According to the Rev. Allen Puffenberger, associate pastor of the Grace United Methodist Church in Washington C.H. and coordinator of the program, the event is being presented in recognition America's religious

"Many of our founding fathers came here for religious freedom, and much of the strength of our nation has been due to the diversity of religions present,' Rev. Puffenberger stated.

Many congregations will be participating in the service, according to publicity chairman Conrad Bower, pastor of the Center Christian Church in Jeffersonville. He stated that the Ministerial Fayette County Association, which is sponsoring the event, stresses that the program is non-sectarian, and open to everyone.

The ministrial association has requested that upon completion of regular worship services, attending congregations walk to the Courthouse, singing hymns. The program will include a

Flu vaccine ready for adults

WASHINGTON (AP) - Enough swine flu vaccine will be ready this summer to begin inoculating millions of adults shortly after Labor Day, U.S. health official say. But vaccination of younger Americans will likely be delayed pending further studies of side effects.

Dr. Saul Krugman of New York University said Tuesday that dose and composition standards for the adult vaccines should be ready within two weeks so manufacturers can go into full production.

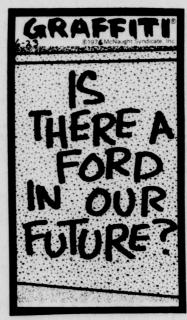

'We know now that in the age group of 25 or so and above it will be possible to recommend a dose that can be well tolerated," said Krugman, member of a Center for Disease Control advisory committee.

Federal health advisory committees recommended Tuesday that the $135million vaccination program move ahead to immunize the nation's adults as soon as possible, but they advised delaying shots for children and young people until more studies are made.

Dr. David J. Sencer, director of the U.S. Center for Disease Control (CDC) in Atlanta, said vaccination of the young should begin by late fall or early winter following studies of what type of vaccine at what doses should be used. The bodies recommending a go-program were the Advisory Committee on Influenza Protection to the CDC, and the Panel on Viral and Rickettsial Diseases of the Food and Drug Administration's Bureau of Biologics. Both committees' recommendations will go to Dr. Theodore Cooper, assistant secretary for health of the ahead with the adult part of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare. Cooper can order implementation of the vaccination program after it is set up.

In their deliberations, the committees considered results released Monday of the first human trials of swine flu vaccines.

Those studies with more than 5,000 persons concluded that the vaccines appeared safe and effective in adults. However, they showed side effects in children were higher than expected with the most effective vaccines While these side effects - including mild fever, general malaise and headache - were no more severe than with other flu vaccines and showed in only a small percentage of children, researchers said a mass-immunization program would leave too many youngsters affected. Further tests with children will be completed in August, the committees said, and then a program for younger Americans can be put together.

An A-strain of influenza virus dubbed swine flu - surfaced at Ft. Dix, N.J., last winter and scientists say it could reoccur in the general population in future flu seasons. This flu is similar to one that in 1918 killed 20 millions persons throughout the world.

Dems recommend Hays replacement

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democratic congressmen are expected to approve a series of changes in House payroll practices and to recommend that Rep. Frank Thompson take over as chairman of the House Administration Committee.

The 287-member Democratic caucus was meeting today for the first time since Elizabeth Ray charged that Rep. Wayne Hays, D-Ohio, kept her on the committee staff as his mistress. Hays resigned as chairman of the panel earlier this week in the wake of the House payroll-sex scandal. He is at his Ohio farm recovering from an overdose of sleeping pills.

Nomination of Thompson, a Democrat from New Jersey, to replace Hays would require full House action, would several other recommendations expected to emerge from

The reforms were recommended by a three-man task force headed by Rep.

David Obey, D-Wis., and approved Tuesday by the House Democratic Steering and Policy Committee, made up of Democratic leaders.

One proposal would require monthly accounting of every House employe's pay and duties. Another proposal would strip the administration panel of power that Hays won in 1971 to increase House members' staff, travel and other allowances without a full House vote.

The House is almost sure to approve proposal because Republicans have already introduced a bill to do nearly the same thing.

Obey said the proposals would give the House and the public a full accounting of how every member spends his office money, but he said they would not prevent such abuses as Miss Ray has charged.

"The only way you're going to get full accountability," Obey told reporters, 'is require every member as he leaves the House to be accompanied by a priest and a cop and I don't think that is possible.

The only recommendation that goes directly to the allegation against Hays is one that would require every House member, committee chairman and leader to certify each employe's pay and performance of duties. Public release of the accounting would be required every three months.

The only proposal expected to draw significant opposition was one to make Democrats on the Administration Committee subject to appointment by the speaker so their conduct would be his responsibility.

Democratic Whip John McFall and caucus Chairman Phillip Burton, both of California, contended the move would concentrate too much power into the hands of the speaker. Obey said administration of House funds should be under the speaker and his use of that power should be under the scrutiny of full public disclosure.

Red Rome celebrates elections

ROME (AP) - "Rome is red and Italy will be," thousands of Communists chanted Tuesday night as they celebrated their victory in Rome's municipal elections. Tens of thousands marched from the party headquarters to the city hall a block away on the Capitoline Hill. Holding hands, they danced around the square Michelangelo designed. Some climbed up on the equestrian statue of Emperor Marcus Aurelius to decorate it with hammer-and-sickle stickers and Elections for a new city council in the center of Roman Catholicism and in about 100 other municipalities were held Sunday and Monday along with the national parliamentary elections. The Christian Democrats came in first nationally despite strong Communist gains, but in Rome the Communists won 30 of the municipal council's 80 seats to 27 for the Christian Democrats.

The vote was 676,618 or 35.5 per cent for the Communists, 630,776 or 33.1 per cent for the Christian Democrats, and more than 600,000 for seven other parties. The Christian Democrats were the largest party in 1971 with 28 per

No party has won a majority in Rome since World War II, but the Christian Democrats have always led the voting and controlled the city government by forming coalitions with other non-Communist parties. The Communists said now they would try to form the coalition and take over, as they already have in Turin, Milan, Venice, Genoa,

Bologna, Florence and Naples - every other major city on the Italian mainland.

The Roman vote was another pointed rebuff to Pope Paul VI, for the Pope is the Bishop of Rome, and local parish priests and Catholic groups were mobilized to try to contain the Communist

But with less than a third of the city going to Sunday mass regularly, fewer and fewer voters respond to papal appeals. Instead they listened to the Communists' promise to bring to Italy's capital the social-minded, efficient administration that has made Bologna, northern Italy's Communist showpiece for 30 years, a widely acclaimed model city.

Kissinger meets to avert racial war

MUNICH, West Germany (AP) -Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger and South African Prime Minister John Vorster begin talks today that Kissinger says he hopes will help avert a racial war in southern Africa.

Kissinger will try to enlist Vorster's help in steering the white-minority government of Rhodesia into negotiations to transfer control to the country's 6.1 million blacks within two

Although the two-day meeting in the forests of Bavaria was originally planned to advance the Ford administration's new campaign against the white regime in Rhodesia, the black uprising in South Africa in the past week has focused public interest much more on what Kissinger says to Vorster about his rejection of majority rule in his own country.

At a news conference Tuesday in Paris, Kissinger denied that the meeting was an expression of U.S. sympathy toward South Africa's white minority

He said he was seeing Vorster at the unanimous suggestion of 40 black African countries.

"It is in this spirit and not in any sense of an endorsement of anything that is going on in South Africa - quite the contrary — that I am meeting the South African prime minister,"

He criticized Vorster's government for its "violent" response to the black rioting in which at least 140 persons were killed and more than 1,100 in-

He also reiterated the Ford administration's distaste for apartheid, the South African government policy of racial separation and black repression.

The U.S. government "is attempting to move matters to a solution through negotiations rather than through violence," Kissinger said, "and it will attempt to do what it can to avoid outside intervention and to permit a solution in which African problems are

Dead private called 'momma's boy

SAN DIEGO (AP) — A Marine drill sergeant on trial in the fatal beating of Pvt. Lynn McClure says the victim was a "momma's boy" and a "malingerer" who tried to avoid combat training.

Testifying Tuesday on his own behalf, S.-Sgt. Harold L. Bronson said the 20-year-old McClure was determined not to take part in the mock bayonet fights with padded 12-pound pugil sticks.

"He gave the impression of being a momma's boy, also of being a malingerer," said Bronson, a 10-year Marine veteran from Freeport, Fla. "He gave the impression that he'd never been in a fistfight."

Bronson is charged in the military proceedings with negligent homicide, violation of orders and dereliction of

The defense was expected to rest its case today.

Contradicting defense as well as prosecution testimony, Bronson said McClure was never given any "free blows" during the bouts, nor was he ever knocked down or struck while on the ground. Free blows are punches left open to an opponent by the victim. He also said that he thought McClure was faking injuries during the pugil-stick bouts last Dec. 6, including when he was struck in the head and fell into a convulsive coma.

"The blow he received, I didn't think was really that forceful," he said. "I thought he was faking and so did the other recruits." But at one point, Bronson said he 'wasn't 100 per cent sure' that McClure was not hurt and let him sit out a few bouts. "I wanted to give him the benefit of the doubt," he said.

defense lawyer Dan Hunter, Bronson said that hazing was allowed in the motivation platoon, a special training unit for castoff recruits. Until the unit was abolished with McClure's death, Bronson headed the platoon's "incentive section," a punishment unit for what Bronson called "marginal recruits.

Another DI who faces identical charges in McClure's death appeared Tuesday as a surprise defense witness. Sgt. Henry Aguilar, 23, of Hanford, Calif., said that he and Bronson were ordered to have McClure attacked repeatedly until he motivation."

'He was to stay out there until he fought," said Aguilar, who said the order was issued by S.-Sgt. Henry C. Wallraff, the third DI facing charges in Under questioning by civilian McClure's death

Martian landing sites studied

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Photos of the Martian site chosen for Viking 1's July 4 landing streamed in from space to the Jet Propulsion Laboratory, where scientists will study them closely to make sure the area is safe for the rocket's landing.

The 58 photos were taken in about six minutes Tuesday by Viking's twin cameras from its newly established orbit. They came to earth late Tuesday and early today via radio transmission.

"We've made a lot of estimates (of the nature of the surface) from what little evidence we have, and the proof of the pudding is starting to come in today," said Dr. Harold Masursky. He is a member of the Viking orbiter photography team and is a U.S. Geological Survey scientist.

The landing site is called Chryse. It's a basin area at the mouth of a huge valley where water may have flowed at

Pieced together in a photo mosaic, the pictures will be studied by geologists to determine what the surface is made of and whether boulders, potholes or soft sand pose any hazards for the three-legged Viking lander, which will separate from the mother ship.

For the rest of June, the spacecraft will circle the planet - and pass the landing area — once a day. Mars is about half the size of earth but its day, called a "sol" by scientists, is slightly longer than earth's: 24.6 hours.

Also on Tuesday, Viking studied infrared radiation emitted and reflected from the landing site. Such measurements tell geologists about the thermal properties of the surface and give clues to the composition of the rocks and soil.

Another instrument examined the thin atmosphere of Mars for traces of water vapor. There have been encouraging signs that such vapor water in its gaseous form - may be more abundant than had been calculated from earlier observations. Such findings could slightly improve the chances of finding life on Mars.

Masursky said liquid water is not believed to exist on Mars because of the planet's low atmospheric pressure. But near Chryse and many other places on the planet are features that have the unmistakable look of dry channels that were carved by flowing water.

If water was once abundant on Mars. he said, the atmosphere must once have been heavier — providing enough pressure to keep water in its liquid

"Something must have been different," he said, "and we'd like to find out what it was.

U.S. set to cast Angola entry veto

The United States prepared to cast its 15th veto in the Security Council today to block Angola's application for membership in the United Nations.

Third World diplomats on the 15nation council, led by Tanzania's Salim A. Salim, conceded Tuesday night that their efforts to work out a compromise apparently had failed.

U.S. officials in Washington said Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger, in Europe for talks with South African Prime Minister John Vorster, recommended a veto. But they left the door open for last-minute bargaining.

The Ford administration, reluctant to hand Ronald Reagan a campaign weapon by letting Angola into the United Nations while thousands of Cuban troops are still there, pressed the Soviet-backed Marxist government to delay its application until after the veto Angola's application while three

Desert ecology threat

Off-road vehicle enthusiasts tend to scorn claims that they may do serious environmental harm. The fact is that, especially in Western desert regions, such harm may be not only serious but very longlasting. Even in areas where the ecology is less fragile than that of the desert, motorcycles and the like may do heavy damage.

As for the desert, consider the report by two U.S. Geological Survey scientists in the magazine California Geologist. After the Barstow-Las Vegas motorcycle race in the Mojave Desert in 1974 they walked over the course and found severe destruction of vegetation and other barriers to erosion. They say "it may take centuries" for the Mojave to recover. All who cherish America's natural heritage have a stake in keeping the off-roaders within sensible bounds.

Do Russians have ultimate weapon?

What are you prepared to believe? The U.S. has been operating listening devices on the roof of its embassy in Moscow. Ditto for the Soviets in setting up similar devices at their embassy in Washington D.C.

The Russians, who have no compunctions about trying to deprive their enemies of advantages that they themselves take as a matter of course, have beamed microwaves at the U.S. embassy roof, with the intention of disabling the U.S. monitoring equipment. And the Boston Globe, a reputable newspaper, has reported that the U.S. Ambassador to Moscow, Walter J. Stoessel Jr., has been ailing from a disease that could have been

If the air can carry all manner of discombobulating waves, there is ample reason to believe that some way may eventually be found to disarrange the electromagnetic circuits of reentry vehicles containing nuclear warheads. which embassies can be jammed by microwave activity. The paper in question speaks of "psychotronic weapons." The phrase was new to me. A psychotronic warhead fired at an incoming missile would render the electronics of the reentry vehicle inert.

Aimed at a human being-say at a pilot in an incoming bombing plane the device would disarrange the lifesustaining portion of his biological system. A psychotronic curtain would protect the first country to achieve it, leaving it free to terrorize everyone

In 1960 Khrushchev announced that the Soviets had a new weapon that could wipe out all life on earth. The retired army officer whose paper I am quoting thinks that Khrushchev had the psychotronic warhead in mind. It would wipe out life, but would leave phycisal structures unimpaired. Thus a conqueror armed with the psychotronic weapon could inherit the economic establishment of an advanced country even in the act of ridding that country of its inhabitants.

The retired army officer says that psychotronic weapons have been developed and exist." He also says "the U.S. does not have psychotronic weapons that Moscow has gotten the jump on us if we believe him.
I'd like to think that U.S. scientist can match anything that has been turned out by Soviet Research and Develop-ment. I wouldn't have believed in the laser-guided "smart" bomb, but we got in in time for use in the last stages of the Vietnam war. Every day we hear of some new military marvel

The story set forth by the New York Times military expert, Drew Middleton, about an explosive "mine" that can be set on the ocean floor with a programmed ability to distinguish between American and Soviet submarines sounds like black magic. If what Middleton tells us is true, we can bottle up the Soviet submarine fleet by sowing the new device thinkly between Iceland and Norway, and at the choke points of the Mediterranean and Baltic seas. It all strains credulity, but

Middleton is not one to lie. It strains credulity, too, that guided missiles exist that can be hefted and fired by single infantrymen to knock off tanks and armored cars and even jet airplances at a safe distance. If the Soviet submarines, tanks and planes can be countered by the new defensive weaponry, we can win through to a new safety. NATO can be revived. The retired officer who writes about the psychotronic warhead thinks the Soviets will strike at western Europe before the new defenses can be called into play. If he is right, we will know it before the year is out. We will also know it if and when a bictoriuous Russia, standing at the English Channel, warns us against a nuclear response by informing us that the psychotronic curtain will save Russia while the Soviet missiles are on their way to U.S. military targets

The scenario is essentially incredible. But who, even a decade ago, would have believed in the laser-guided weapon, the seabottom "mine" with a mind of its own, and the discombobulating microwave beam?

In any event, I'd like to hear more about the psychotronic anti-missile

Ohio Perspective

Short-term school loans being pushed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) - The Rhodes Administration is pressing for passage of a bill that would authorize school districts to borrow on short term from private sources when their subsidies are delayed by the state.

Budget and Management Director William W. Wilkins said it is one of the tools needed to help Ohio meet "cash flow" problems during the fiscal year that begins July 1.

He explained that meeting the monthly bills of the state in some upcoming low revenue months probably will entail delays in school foundation payments to Ohio's more than 600 school districts.

As a result, he said, the bill by Rep. Frederick N. Young, R-38 Dayton, is needed to permit the schools to meet their obligations on time.

So far, the bill hasn't received a hearing in the Democrat controlled legislature, and the lawmakers are in recess, at least until a July 20 meeting which could be just a skeleton session. Senate Majority Leader Oliver

Ocasek, D-27 Akron, came out against the bill, saying it would cost the school districts "eight to 10 per cent interest" on the local loans.

However, Wilkins said he is willing to accept an amendment through which the state would have to reimburse the districts for their interest costs.

"I hope the bill will have a hearing if we are forced to hold up school foun-dation payments" as part of the state's current belt tightening efforts, he said.

Under the bill, the school districts would operate on the same July 1 to June 30 fiscal year as the state instead of their present calendar year basis, at least for the purposes of school foundation payments.

Rather than being limited to borrowing which must be paid back by the end of the calendar year, the loans wouldn't have to be repaid until the following June 30.

Richard G. Sheridan, chief fiscal adviser to majority Democrats in the legislature, said he would be concerned about giving such authority to at least to some districts which "don't even know they are broke until they have to close down.

Dear

Teen has trouble getting summer job

DEAR ABBY: I am a 17-year-old boy who was able to graduate from high school early because I passed the required tests. My problem is I need a summer job, but nobody will hire me because I have had no experience. Abby, how can a person get experience if nobody will hire him?

I am a responsible, hard-working boy who has never been in any kind of trouble, and I'm willing to do anything-run errands, wait on tables, sweep the floors, answer the phone, box groceries you name it. And if I don't know how to do it, I will learn.

So far I have applied for 22 jobs, but nothing has materialized.

Abby, how can a person without pull or connections get a job? I'm beginning to think it's impossible.
DISCOURAGED

DEAR DISCOURAGED: Go back to some of the places you've applied and tell them that you are honest, dependable, hard-working and so eager to prove your worth that you'll work for one week with no obligation on their part, and if if they feel you don't qualify, they owe you nothing.

You may not be hired instantly, but

Bill was going out with his friends that evening and was waiting for us to finish dressing before he showered and shaved. He said he'd do that after we left and while the sitter was here.

I put my foot down and insisted that Bill shower quickly and leave the house with us. I didn't think it would be right for him to be alone in the house with a 13-year-old girl, even though he is a very nice young man. I knew that the sitter's mother would be horrified to learn that we left her daughter alone with a 24-year-old man, and I felt the girl herself might feel ill at ease.

Bill was furious with me, and my husband thought I was crazy to think there would be anything wrong in leaving Bill with the sitter. Was I wrong to feel that way?

DEAR TAKING: Yes. You owe Bill DEAR ABBY: I am to be married in

BALTIMORE BRIDE

DEAR BRIDE: I can't | what "everyone" would say, and neither can your aunt. She's obviously more concerned with her own image than eager to participate in your wedding. Don't coax her.

Blonde escapes, gorilla dies for N.Y. crowd

NEW YORK (AP) - The 40-foot gorilla lay prone and bleeding, dead after a 110-story fall from the north tower of the World Trade Center.

But the beautiful blonde who had escaped from the monster's grasp was very much alive as a crowd of 5,000 men, women and children surged forward to get a look at the dead gorilla.

The ape was of Styrofoam, rubber and horsehair. The blood was Karo syrup mixed with vegetable coloring. Dawn, the monster's erstwhile captive, was really actress Jessica Lange.

But the crowd was a real New York crowd, lured by newspaper ads for extras - unpaid - to take part in the filming of Dino de Laurentiis' $22 million remake of the 1933 classic, "King Kong."

Even though unpaid and nonprofessional, the crowd had to do some acting - horror expressed at the falling gorilla.

The actual fall is being filmed in Hollywood with a mechanical monster, and the New York version of King Kong just lay there throughout the proceedings. A spokesman for the movie company said the scene at the foot of the World Trade Center would be filmed again tonight and Wednesday night at a cost for the three shootings of about

LOS ANGELES (AP) - If anyone ever needed an hour to showcase their talent in a TV variety show, you'd think it would be the performer-packed

Jackson family.
Yet the five brothers and three sisters who are starring in "The Jacksons" this summer on CBS-TV deliberately opted for a 30-minute format.

'We were offered an hour but we decided to do half an hour," explains Michael Jackson, who soared to fame six years ago as lead singer of the Jackson Five. He's now all of 17.

"We'd rather just give them (the audience) a little - make them want more. Then they'll be ready for us next

The Jackson clan was offered a weekly series by ABC two years ago but Michael says they turned it down because they were just too busy recording and touring to devote themselves to a one-hour TV show each week.

They still are, he notes - another reason for the 30-minute format. The family was able to knock off the four CBS summer shows - the second of which airs tonight — in less than three

Jackson says the musical clan is more willing to accept a long-running series commitment now - "there's a TV craze goin' on" — but if CBS wants them as a midseason replacement this winter, it will have to take them at half

Whether the network will buy the concept permanently he isn't sure, but he believes the channel-hopping public

"America is on the move," he declared. "It's hard to make 'em sit still for an hour unless somethin's goin' on like somethin' dirty.'

The latter came with a sly grin from the shy high school senior. He spoke quietly at a table beside the swimming pool at the tree-shrouded home where he lives with his parents and three siblings. His pet parrot squawked loudly from its nearby cage.

The five oldest sons of Joe and Katherine Jackson burst onto the national musical scene in 1970 with a string of records that hit the top of the sales charts and forever ended the days when their father had to operate a crane in a Gary, Ind., steel mill.

The original group consisted of Michael, Jackie, now 25, Tito, 22, Jermaine, 20, and Marlon, 19. Brother Randy, now 14, joined them on the concert circuit in 1973 and the three girls -Rebie, 26, La Toya, 20, and Janet, 10 followed in 1974.

Only Jermaine will not be seen on the summer series. Michael says he was busy recording a solo album at the time they taped the shows.

Father Joe, the primary musical influence on the talented children, also got involved, serving as an executive producer. But Mother Katherine, who played clarinet in high school, would have none of it, Michael reports.

Homes priced beyond most buyers

NEW YORK (AP) - The average new single-family home now costs about $100,000.

Shocking as that price might be, it is a fact if you include the cost of financing which over the past 10 years has added much more to the price of housing than have building costs. In 1966 a new single-family house cost about $25,000. If a $5,000 down payment were made it would leave $20,000 to be financed at 6 per cent for 25 years. Total cost: $43,661.

A comparable house in 1976 costs $45,000. After a $9,000, 20 per cent, downpayment, $36,000 would remain to be financed at 9 per cent for 25 years. Total cost: $99.636.

In terms of monthly payments, the 1966 purchaser must come up with $128.87 — generally rounded off to $129

while the 1976 buyer has to pay a note of $302.12.

Stated starkly, the typical purchaser cannot afford the typical house, and no agency of government or private enterprise seems able to resolve the dilemma.

Builders have literally cut corners, reducing the size of models. They have cut out the extra bath and the fourth bedroom, have left attics unfinished, eliminated the garage, reduced the quality of cabinetry.

Individuals have resorted to their own devices. On a small scale, some companies offer kits to individuals capable of erecting their own homes. Many young couples have bought and refinished older, run down homes. The over-all problem remains, however. A survey by "Professional Builder Magazine" indicates that at least 40 per cent of potential buyers in the age group to 34 years of to pay more than $35,000. Moreover, the trend continues to worsen. Often ignored in time and price with costs of taxes, fuel, repairs and general maintenance all rising swiftly, in some instances much more sharply than the general inflation level.

Curiously, however, discussion of the problem seems to be absent from public debates, or at least treated with apathy. So long as it persisted, it seems that courage to face the issue seems to have waned.

In the political campaigns it appears to be hardly an issue at all, and yet there are no more basic needs than food, clothing and shelter. And quality shelter, a home of one's own, remains one of the great American aspirations.

large Statehouse rally here the week before the primary but claimed he would have done the same for the other

By TOM DIEMER Associated Press Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) - Lt. Gov. Richard F. Celeste, who remained uncommitted throughout Democratic primary campaign, is now supporting Sen. John Glenn for vice president on a ticket headed by Jimmy

"I think John Glenn would be the strongest possible running mate for Carter," Celeste said in an interview Tuesday.

Celeste, a potential gubernatorial candidate in 1978 and a leading light in the Ohio Democratic party, held to a doggedly neutral stance during the presidential primary season, right up to the June 8 Ohio election.

But after Carter's impressive victory in Pennsylvania on April 27, Celeste said he privately endorsed the former Georgia governor and became ever more enthusiastic about his candidacy as the primary campaign progressed.

He warmly introduced Carter at a of the Carter appeal. Although he is generally regarded as more liberal than Carter or Glenn, the lieutenant governor insists he has no ideological qualms about supporting such a ticket. "I don't think you can categorize Carter as left or right," he said, "but the way he responds to issues, it's unfair to say he is a conservative." Celeste stayed neutral during the cam-paign, he said, out of deference to associates who worked for various candidates.

So guarded was he in his position that his own brother, who managed Carter's Ohio effort, was not aware of his private support for Carter.

'He never told me," Ted Celeste said. "I had in the back of my mind all along that I could get him to change his mind and come around to Carter.'

He had also hoped to make use of the lieutenant governor's vaunted political organization, which has been held together in preparation for 1978.

'Celeste decided to support Glenn for vice president-but not to actively promote his candidacy-at a strategy session last week in his office with an inner circle of personal friends, past political advisors, and current staffers.

"I think my effort to pressure the Carter camp in support of one man would be counter-productive," Celeste said. "They have their list and in the end one man will make the decision."

But he had informed Glenn personally that he is backing him, Celeste said, and will make his views know to Carter, if asked.

Corporate bribery bill cleared

By LAWRENCE L. KNUTSON Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) - A bill making overseas bribery by U.S. corporations illegal passed its first Senate test but remains under a constitutional cloud.

The bill approved Tuesday by the Senate Banking Committee was prompted by recent disclosures that U.S. corporations such as the Lockheed Aircraft Corp. have paid out millions of dollars in bribes to foreign officials and political parties to win sales.

By making it a U.S. crime for a corporation to bribe an official or foreign political party to stimulate or increase business, the bill would go far beyond a White House proposal that would require American companies to report such bribes to an U.S. government agency.

Under the White House proposal, there would be no U.S. criminal action as a result of reporting a bribe. However, the U.S. government might share the information with the foreign government involved or make the information public.

U.S. laws now make it illegal for American corporations to bribe American officials. But there are no U.S. laws covering bribes of foreign officials.

The bill, written by Banking Committee Chairman William Proxmire, D-Wis., sets the penalty for conviction at a two-year jail sentence, a $10,000 fine or both.

Fayette County CETA program receives stay of execution

The Favette County CETA program

has received a stay of execution. Slated to die June 30, the Comprehensive Employment Training Act program has been allocated supplemental funds which Washington D.C. bureaucrats claim extends the program through Jan. 30, 1977.

Although the program which employs 50 area residents will continue after June 30, the funds allocated are not sufficient to keep CETA alive through January. A more realistic extension date would be early September, according to Washington C.H. City Manager George H. Shapter.

Shapter met Tuesday with Sandy Crawford, field representative for the office of Manpower Development, to discuss the program. Since the termination of Charles Tye's employment with the city, Shapter has shouldered the responsibility of administering the CETA program. Ms. Crawford is the state representative to Fayette and six other

The supplemental appropriations were issued under Title II. Bills which would extend funding under each title are still buried in red tape in Washington D.C. Although they have been pending in Congress for several months, there has still been no action

Acceptance of some $72,000 in supplemental has required considerable paperwork for the city

At present, all CETA employes are listed under Title VI because only this title has had funds during the past several months. Since only Title II received additional funding, all employes will technically be terminated and then rehired under Title II.

Although it means little to the employes, it requires a good deal of administrative work; the work Shapter and Ms. Crawford were doing Tuesday.

disasterous to the city.

At present four Washington C.H. police dispatchers, one patrolman, one fireman and two persons in the income tax administration office are paid through CETA funds. Several other key positions in both the city and the county are filled by CETA employes.

If mass layoffs of CETA personnel occur in September, the city will be hard-pressed to fill the void. With a current budget "surplus" of less than $10,000, there can be little money spent to add these positions to the general fund operation, Shapter said. Although there is some federal aid available to individuals who are laid off through termination of CETA program, they are not eligible for state unemployment benefits.

Federal funds for such unemployment have been set aside under the Supplemental Unemployment Assistance Ace, Ms. Crawford said, but it is wholely inadequate to cope with the mass layoffs termination of the nationwide program would bring.

Mrs. Gayle Kelly, director of the Ohio Bureau of Employment Services office in Washington C.H. said she feels adequate funds will be made available. She added that the government machinery is quite slow, and her office is frequently threatened with fund shortages. "But when the time comes, the money is always here," Mrs. Kelly concluded presidential candidate Jimmy Carter said today the United States must abandon what he called its "Lone Ranger" foreign policy and organize free nations to share responsibility for "a just and stable world order."

Carter, the Democrats' probable nominee, called for collective action by the world's democracies in "creative alliances" to help stabilize world prices, ease military tensions and combat hunger and poverty.

Carter painted his concept of "creative alliances" in broad strokes, giving few specific details.

He said it is time to form a partnership between North America, Western Europe and Japan, and that there is a need for increased unity and consultation with Israel, Australia, New Zealand and other democratic

Carter also said in a speech prepared for the Foreign Policy Association

Wealthy to pay despite loopholes

WASHINGTON (AP) - A plan to require wealthy Americans to pay some income tax no matter how many tax loopholes they use is nearing approval in the Senate.

The plan, approved earlier by the Senate Finance Committee, would cost the wealthy $1 billion a year. A bloc of liberal senators is seeking to raise that figure by $200 million and apply the tougher provisions to corporations as well as individuals.

Strengthening this "minimum tax" is a key element of the big tax bill being debated by the Senate.

The minimum tax was enacted in 1969 in an effort to assure that persons using such shelters would pay some income tax. Despite this, it was disclosed earlier this year that 244 Americans earning more than $200,000 paid no income tax in 1974 because of large deductions

Making the minimum tax even tougher than the committee wants is the most important part of a package of tax amendments offered by the liberals. They were beaten Tuesday in most efforts to eliminate tax shelters for high-income investors.

On a 53-40 vote, the Senate indicated it prefers the milder tax-shelter crackdown approved by the Finance Committee, which would raise investors' taxes by $165 million in 1977, a figure that would drop gradually to $126 million by 1981

Task force proposals led to Rhodes' victory in '74

By MIKE FLYNN Record-Herald Editor

Controversy raised over proposals recommended by a local government services commission were contributing factors in the election of Ohio Gov. James A. Rhodes in 1974, according to a Washington C.H. man who served on the commission.

Laurence A. (Bucky) Dumford, 635
Warren Ave., said Tuesday night that proposals regarding the creation of service districts and planning regions in Ohio and the appointment of certain elected county officials helped Rhodes to defeat John J. Gilligan in the 1974 gubernatorial election.

Dumford, who made the statement during a Washington C.H. Lions Club meeting in the Country Club, served on the task force which was appointed by Gilligan to study local government services and recommend improvements over a two-year period. The Ohio County Commissioners Association recommended Dumford for the appointment on the local government commission operated on a $500,000 budget.

Dumford, a former three-term county commissioner who will be seeking the seat now held by J. Herbert Perrill in the November general election, said many of the reports completed the task force have been criticized and discarded by the current administration, but he expects many to become law in the future.

The most critical of the proposals recommended by the local government services commission was the appointment of the county engineer, rather than maintaining the position as an elected office.

"I've been accused of being anti-engineer, but nothing could be further from the truth," Dumford said.

He said Ohio is the only state in the nation which still elects its county engineers and that he supported the proposal because of a "separation of powers.'

County commissioners presents a problem since the engineer certain recommendations they would is also an elected official and the have had the option to withdraw.

powers of the two offices are separated. Dumford said there are two distinct sectors of county government. One is the policy-making branch such as county commissioners, and the other is officials who carry out state policy at the local level such as the county auditor who assesses taxes not only for the county, but for the city, and townships.

The commission also recommended the appointment of county coroners, and the appointment and creation of county law departments to replace prosecuting attorneys. Dumford said he opposes the creation of county legal departments, since a new law permitting prosecuting attorneys to employ assistants (such as in Fayette County) was approved, thus providing the county commissioners with adequate legal advice.

The establishment of service districts and planning regions for the state was recommended by the commission in an effort to "de-centralize" state government and bring it "closer to local people."

"To me it makes sense to study problems in an area larger than the county," Dumford said.

In preparing a report on problems affecting Ohio's counties, Dumford said that the commission found that most state residents felt close to the Ohio Department of Transportation because of easy access to the department through district offices. But, he said Ohio residents interviewed were frustrated because they felt other state departments and offices "were too far away from them.'

He said all counties participating in the service districts and planning regions would have had built-in protections. He noted that Fayette County's regional representatives would have been appointed by Washington C.H. City Council or the Fayette County Board of Commissioners. The representatives would are have had only recommending powers, responsible for highway programs in and no taxing authority. If the the state's 88 counties, but he said it representatives did not agree with

Dumford pointed out that the commission reported that municipal governments throughout the state are capable of delivering efficient services if they have qualified elected officials, have a decent tax base for operation and are able to communicate with the taxpayers.

The commission recommended that township governments should be retained, improved and upgraded.

The major changes included the elimination of the township clerk as elected official and appoint him to a position of township manager in townships with more than 5,000 residents allow the trustees to impose an income tax subject to a vote by township residents, and provide township trustees with "implied powers" in order that they could govern under a broader scope of the

The need for improvements and change at the county government level were recommended by the commission, according to Dumford.

A mandatory alternative form of government, which would have given county commissioners more power, was proposed, Dumford said.

Under the alternative form of government, the appointment of a county manager or supervisor would have been mandated.

Another change would have been the abolishment of the county treasurer's office. The treasurer's office would have been absorbed by the county

Dumford said he opposed the change regarding the treasurer since it was "taking something away from the voters" because there is always competition for the office, and because it did not save money and was "giving away some of the needed checks and balances" of the county government operation.

More commissioners for larger Ohio counties was also recommended, Dumford said. Counties with up to 100,000 population would have had three to five commissioners while Cuyahoga County would have had 11

New identy program adopted by BancOhio

nounced today that BancOhio Corporation and its 41 member banks have adopted a new program of statewide identification including a symbol and corporate logo.

Robert G. Stevens, president and chief executive officer of the $3.2 billion bank holding company, said that over the next few months BancOhio's program will encompass all 214 banking locations across Ohio.

"BancOhio is a truly statewide banking organization," Stevens said, "and when this program is fully implemented, that fact is going to be quite evident. People will see the BancOhio name and symbol all across the state.'

BancOhio's new symbol features a stylized tree contained in three O's echoing the word Ohio. The symbol represents a combination of growth and dynamism of both the state of Ohio and BancOhio, Stevens said.

According to the new identity program, the symbol, the corporate name and the bank name will be used on signs, in advertising, as well as on booklets, forms and checks. The BancOhio name and symbol will be accompanied by individual bank names in a consistent type style. This will result in a BancOhio "look" for all the banks, further reinforcing the common identity.

The name of each individual bank will continue to be used in a prominent manner. "We want to emphasize," Stevens said, "that our banks are local, individually chartered banks, with their own presidents and board of directors who make decisions right in town. Shares of stock in BancOhio are widely held by people in each community in which we operate. BancOhio banks, therefore, are often more locally owned than any other bank in their communities. We want our indentity to tell our hometown Ohioans that what we're doing is combining local responsiveness with statewide strength," Stevens pointed out.

Commenting upon the future, Stevens said, "Our customers already enjoy credit card interchange with doing business in five states.

archaeologist and his interest in prehistoric Indian mounds.

The Rotarians learned of Dr. Woodmansee's excavation of an Adena culture burial mound on a farm in the Deer Creek Reservoir area.

Dr. Woodmansee, a Rotary Club member, started excavation on the burial 10 years ago and spent some five and one-half years on the project.

He explained that there were nine different types of historic Indian cultures in Ohio dating back to 1,000 B.C., the most notable being the Adena, Hopewell and Fort Ancient cultures.

The last of the mound builders were still in Ohio as late as 1650, and the prehistoric Indians evolved into Indian tribes. He said the Shawnees were the most predominant Indian tribe in Ohio. Mounds were constructed in various sizes, but the three basic ones were efigy mounds, similar to Serpent Mound in Adams County, ceremonial mounds and burial mounds. The tree-covered Adena burial mound excavated by Dr. Woodmansee was 25 feet high and some 240 feet in diameter He said the excavation of the mound was a major undertaking because of the fact that he did the work in his spare time.

Dr. Woodmansee said he believes the Adena Indians carried dirt in baskets to construct the mound since dirt was unearthed bearing the imprints of a wooven basket.

Artifacts uncovered in the mound including bones, flint, arrowheads, flint blades, pieces of copper, a rare spearthrowing handle and various tools were displayed by Dr. Woodmansee at the Rotary Club meeting. He said no bows and arrows were found.

From what Dr. Woodmansee said he could determine, most of the Indians buried in the mound were of mediumstature with powerful arms and 20 to 40 years old. One skeleton uncovered was about six feet, four inches in height, and another appeared to be about 60

The highly-honored Indians were buried in the mound with their heads pointed toward the east.

Dr. Woodmansee pointed out that the Adena culture inhabitated Ohio for a period of over 1700 years before the area became overcrowded with the arrival of the Hopewells.

In closing, Dr. Woodmansee said the pre-historic Indian cultures must be respected since they were possibly the first home builders, the first farmers and the first people to be involved with ceramics.

The meeting was conducted by Dr. George Pommert, club vice president in the absence of president William E. Williams.

It was announced during the meeting that the club will be chartering a bus to see the Cincinnati Reds play the Philadelphia Phillies Thursday at Riverfront Stadium. The bus will depart from the Union 76 service station, corner of Market and Main streets

Tribe halts streaking Yanks

By BRUCE LOWITT AP Sports Writer Who's on third? Chris Chambliss Why? Good question. Who's on first? Denny Doyle. Oops ... wait a second.

He's on second. Because Chambliss hugged the bag instead of high-tailing it for home, the New York Yankees came up on the short end of a 3-2 score against the Cleveland Indians Tuesday night.

And because Doyle was hightailing it for second instead of hanging around first, the Boston Red Sox came out on the long end of a 6-5 score in a 15-inning marathon against the Baltimore

In the rest of the American League, Oakland trimmed Texas 5-2, Chicago clubbed Kansas City 14-8, Detroit mauled Milwaukee 10-4 and Minnesota beat California 10-6.

In New York, it all came down to the bottom of the ninth. Cleveland was clinging to its 3-2 lead, but Chambliss led off the last of the ninth with a double

Up came Fran Healy, who sent a sharp grounder toward second base. "If Chambliss breaks right away, he scores easy," Indians' Manager Frank Robinson observed. But Chambliss staved right where he was - and when second baseman Duane Kuiper came up with a diving stop on Healy's grounder and a throw to first for the out, Chambliss still was 90 feet from home. Then he and the rest of the Yanks went home losers when LaRoche got Willie Randolph on a routine fly ball to center.

Yankees Manager Billy Martin had a simple explanation for Chamblis' 'The ball had to go through,' inertia. ' he said. "We told him to wait if it didn't. If I use sandy Alomar as a pinchrunner. I have no one in the extra innings - and Chambliss is leading the team in RBIs."

seven games and pulled the Indians back within seven games of the firstplace Yanks in the AL East. Red Sox 6, Orioles 5

In Baltimore, where a curfew was threatening to halt the Orioles-Red Sox game, Manager Darrell Johnson's strategy enabled Boston to beat the clock.

Fred Lynn on third base and Doyle on first, Bob Darwin - who had hit a firstinning grand-slam home run - was batting for the Red Sox. On a 2-2 pitch. Johnson sent Doyle flying to second.

Darwin sent a hot grounder up the middle. Shortstop Mark Belanger, who ranged deep behind second to stop Darwin's grounder, didn't see Doyle coming his way. If he had, he'd have thrown to first for the third out. Instead, he flipped to second baseman Bobby Grich, trying for a forceout — but Doyle beat the ball to the bag.

Darwin just beat Grich's throw to first as Lynn crossed the plate.

A's 5, Rangers 2 "I guess you could compare us to the Chicago White Sox teams of the '60s,' Manager Chuck Tanner said after Oakland beat Texas on eight hits—the most the A's have managed in the last 10 days. "We have speed and good pitching and we use it the best we can."

The A's stole four bases and got good pitching from Dick Bosman and Paul Lindblad to win their third game in the last four. One of their few big shots was Ken McMullen's homer.

White Sox 14, Royals 8

Darwin wasn't the only grand-slammer in the AL Tuesday night. Kevin Bell of the White Sox had one and it hurt the Royals a lot more than Darwin's hurt the Orioles.

It was an inside-the-park shot that had Kansas City rookie left fielder Tom Poquette charging into the wall literally. He crashed head-first into the fence and was carried unconscious from the field. The Rookie of the Year candidate with the .347 batting average suffered a fractured left cheekbone and will be out at least three weeks.

Chicago had two other homerun heroes in its 16-hit attack. Jim Spencer had a three-run shot in the first inning and Jorge Orta unloaded a two-run belt in the fourth.

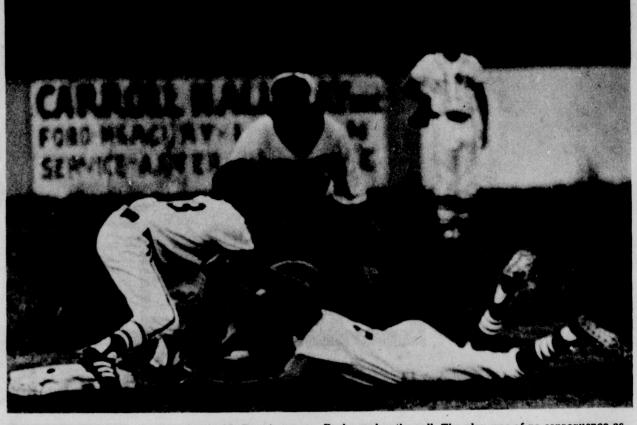

Tigers 10, Brewers 4

The Tigers didn't have as many bombs as Chicago, but they had more bullets, getting 20 hits off five Milwaukee pitchers. Bill Freehan, Alex Johnson and Tom Veryzer had three apiece with Veryzer and Aurelio Rodriguez knocking in two runs apiece.

Hank Aaron hit his 752nd career home run, his seventh this year and fifth in his last eight games for Milwaukee

Twins 10, Angels 6

Minnesota had its share of long and short-ball men. Rod Carew had a threerun homer and two singles, Butch Wynegar doubled and singled twice and Dan Ford hit a two-run homer and a single to lead the Twins' 17-hit barrage

AP Sports Writer Randy Jones would give his left arm to take one pitch back. "As soon as I let it go, I knew it was a ball," he said.

With the slip of that pitch, the San Diego left-hander let a National League record fall out of his grasp - Christy Mathewson's monumental no-walk record established 63 years ago.

The free pass to Marc Hill leading off the eighth inning of Tuesday night's 4-2 victory over the San Francisco Giants stopped Jones' streak at 68 walkless innings.

A few moments before, he had pulled into a tie with the great Mathewson of the New York Giants by striking out Darrell Evans to close out the seventh inning. But the streak had been weighing heavily on his broad shoulders.

"I fought off the pressure for a long time but about the fifth inning it caught up with me," said Jones. "Subconsciously I'm sure it affected me. It's kind of disappointing to go that long and then end up walking the guy."

Jones, who had faced 296 batters before the pass to Hill, then lost all control by walking his second batter of the inning, Larry Herdnon. Luckily it came after a double play had wiped out Hill and caused Jones no trouble.

Pirates 10, Cubs 7 Rennie Stennett smashed five hits and Al Oliver and Richie Zisk each had three, leading Pittsburgh over Chicago. With the Pirates trailing 5-0 going into the fifth inning, Stennett singled home two runs. The Pirates then took the lead with four runs in the seventh and added four more in the eighth.

Expos 8, Phillies 3

Gary Roenicke's two-run double and solo home runs by Mike Jorgenson and Pat Scanlon helped Montreal beat Philadelphia. Right-hander Clay Kirby, who pitched hitless ball for 5 1-3 innings, earned his first victory of the season against five losses with the aid of three hitless relief innings by Dale Murray. They combined on a threehitter.

St. Louis right-hander John Denny continued his mastery over New York,

Records fall in Olympic trials

EUGENE, Ore. (AP) Roberts regained the world pole vault record with a mark of 18 feet 81/4 inches and promptly declared it "will take at least the same height or better to win" an Olympic gold medal.

But the 24-year-old medical student's record-shattering vault was only one of the highlights of a big day at the U.S. Olympic track and field trials Tuesday:

-Marathon champion Shorter, Craig Virgin and Garry Bjorklund finished 1-2-3 in a 10,000meter final that produced four of the fastest times ever in the U.S.

-Millard Hampton, a powerfully built 19-year-old headed for UCLA next fall, won the 200-meter dash as the top three finishers ran the fastest races of their lives. -Jane Frederick, a top prospect for a medal at Montreal, won the women's pentathlon and missed her American record by only 110 points.

Roberts borrowed a pole from Arkansas State's Earl Bell, the man who took the world record from him in late May, after breaking his own pole on his first try at 18-81/4. He was given three attempts at that height, clearing it on the final try. "I touched the bar going up, but I didn't touch it very hard," Roberts, a second-year student at the University of Florida Medical School, said of his record vault.

Reds Norman weaves shutout

L.A. slowly sinks in west

CINCINNATI (AP) — The Los Angeles Dodgers are slowly sinking in the National League West, torpedoed

by another June swoon.
"We're not trying to make everybody look like Cy Young or Grover Cleveland Alexander, but that's what we're doing," said Sutton after the Cincinnati Reds swept a two-game series Tuesday night with back to back 4-hitters to drop the Dodgers into third, 51/2 games behind.

The Reds 6-0 victory and Randy Jones' 13th victory put San Diego in second place.

It capped another nightmarish June A year ago they entered June leading Cincinnati by a game and a half. A month later they trailed by eight. "If they don't close the season next week, we'll be okay," said Manager Walter Alston, trying to find some humor in the midst of a four-game losing streak. Cincinnati's Fred Norman, squeezed out of the rotation earlier this month, made a bid to reclaim a starting spot with his first shutout since April 18.

The 33-year-old lefthander ran his lifetime record at Riverfront Stadium to 28-6, but not without some shaky

When I warmed up I was skeptical. I didn't get it together until the last couple minutes. I didn't think I'd last the first inning," said Norman, who up-ped his record to 5-1.

Once he settled down, "it was like sitting in a rocking chair," said batterymate Johnny Bench, who broke out of an 0-for-16 slump with three hits to spark three uprisings. "All he threw were strikes

three runs as the Reds threaten a repeat of their runaway a year ago when they buried the Dodgers by 20 games in the most lopsided division

Olympic trial plan

Doctor urges long

EUGENE, Ore. (AP) — The United States should abandon the concept of a single, one-shot Olympic trial for its track and field athletes and begin picking the U.S. squad two years before the Olympics.

That's the idea being pushed by Dr. Leroy Walker, the head coach of the men's track team that will compete at Montreal starting July 17.

Walker long has advocated selecting the U.S. team well in advance, but the subject heated up again last Saturday when sprinter Steve Williams, one of the world's fastest men, was injured and failed to make the American team.

"Under my plan," said Walker, "if you have an injured athlete, you would do with him what any good coach would you'd rest him to make him whole. We would not have had to chance this situation with Williams being forced to run in the trials.'

Asked if he'd like to select the entire team by committee rather than by a one-shot performance, Walker said, 'No, I think the athletes should detemine themselves, by their performances, who makes the team. If I were a commissioner, like in the National Football League, I'd already have the team chosen before I came out

The former head track coach at North Carolina Central University proposed a flexible program that might start two years before the Olympics.

"For example, in 1978, we might have a major track meet. Call it the USA National Championships, or something. Then the top eight runners and the top 12 field event finishers would be considered our national team on call.

"We could then follow them closely, help coach them and if the President's Commission on Olympic sports

Tournament

There will be an ASA sanctioned Church Team tournament at the Cederville Community Park on Saturday July 3 and Monday July 5, with no games on Sunday. Individual trophies will be awarded to the winning people, as I think they will, then there will be a recognizable group of athletes who would be eligible for the subsidies.

He said he would not eliminate the final Olympic Trials altogether.
"There should be a trials setup, but it should have some flexibility built into it." he said.

Williams, heavily favored to make the team, has asked - through his coach, Brooks Johnson - to be considered for a spot on the U.S. 400-meter

"Yes, I would say that if he was completely healthy he would be a fantastic anchor man," Walker said. "You'd be hard-pressed to find anyone in the world better than he is on the anchor of a relay, when he gets that 20 meters of acceleration

However, Walker said present rules do not permit him to put Williams or anyone else on a relay team unless he or she already is a member of the squad in at least one event

Alston said the skid "is nothing that we can't overcome with some hitting. We haven't scored any runs in a week.'

'You take Cey out of the lineup and it's hard to score runs," said Alston. Reds Manager Sparky Anderson has his doubts about the Dodgers. 'Without Lopes and Cey, it's going to be tough on them," he said after the Reds notched their 15th victory in 21 games this month.

A revitalized screwball helped Norman master the Dodgers, who had held an 11-4 career edge over him. Norman wasn't so sure he would be around long enough to find his long lost screwball.

He got the feeling his days were numbered in Cincinnati after being relegated to the bullpen late last year and again this season.

"I had doubts whether I'd be here this year," said Norman.

A crowd of 39,000 saluted his efforts with a standing ovation in the eighth, but Norman didn't realize what was going on. "I thought somebody had just got a base hit. I didn't notice what was happening because I didn't want to lose the concentration I had going-that

He drove in a run in the Reds' threerun fourth with a sacrifice fly. Sutton, 6-7, absorbed the loss. "People picking up the paper are going to say I got the heck kicked out of me, but that is pretty far from the truth."

The Reds open a two-game stand against sizzling Philadelphia tonight, with 6-foot-7 rookie Santo Alcala, 6-2, facing Steve Carlton, 6-3.

There is an ambience about complicated past when the most motor machines is almost important things in life were constant. They cruise in, circle cars and girls and boys and the cinder-block building two or double-decker hamburger sandwiches.

Judy Sanders knows the scene It's been happening here since 1957 when Mark Botsaris turned his Dairy Queen into a pop food paradise called the Thunderbird Drive-In.

Well. She was a car hop at the school sophomore back in 1962. Thirteen years later she is married to John Sanders, the married to John Sanders, the manger of the Thunderbird.

Judy, 29, and the mother of three, works as his assistant, taking food orders and supervising the car hops.

"At least once or twice a month," she says, "somebody will come up to the window and say, 'Wow, you're still here and the Thunderbird is still here.' It's amazing to them because everything has changed ... but the Thunderbird is still the same old place they remember as teen-agers.
"The teen-agers who came here years ago are in their 30s going on 40 now. The Thunder-bird is the place they used to hang out; whether they went to the drive-in or wherever, everyone ended up at the Thunder-

A tall sign with two revolving neon birds, one red and the other blue, towers over the place. There are spaces for 42 cars, with speakers for customers to transmit their food orders over the "servus-fone" inside. The ritual is the same every

"They usually collect around the place reminiscent of a less 10 o'clock and that's when the parking lot is full," said one regular. "They go around three times, first to check out who's here and then to find the best seats."

Owner Botsaris, who has seen the crowd change over the years, is worried about today's young people. The Thunderbird is still a "fun place," he says, but the teen-agers are not as

"jovial" as they once were.
"In the '50s ... I could walk up to a carload of kids who were rowdy and just say to them, 'Cut it out,' and they would listen.
Today's kids are more aggressive ... to be perfectly honest, I'm just afraid to pull the kids out of cars and call their parents," he said.

The Thunderbird is a type of restaurant rapidly disap-restaurant rapidly disap-pearing in the Northeast, probably because of the cold weather that limits business in the winter.

Most remaining car hop loca-tions are found in the South and West, according to William P. Fisher of the National Restaurant Association.

"As the public became more sophisticated in terms of its dining-out eating habits, they demanded a movement away from the girls on roller skates and the trays on the side of the cars," said Fisher in his Chicago office.
Botsaris acknowledges that his business is off 10 to 15 per cent from a decade ago, largely because of the emergence of fast food chains like Mc-Donald's, Gino's and Burger

The Thunderbird actually loses money from December through February, he says, but sales skyrocket in summer.

On a good night, the drive-in will sell 400 of its most popular item, the Thunderburger — two three-ounce beef patties on a triple decker sesame roll with shredded lettuce, cheese and a thousand island sauce.

MODESTO, Calif. (AP) - Joseph Jefferson Floyd, who celebrates his 100th birthday next Sept. 14, is a regular cigar smoker. When asked whether he has smoked cigars all his life, he answered: "No," with a hint of annoyance, "I'm not through yet."

Entertainer too upset after rape

NEW YORK (AP) — Connie Francis' psychiatrist has testified that a motel rape has left her too emotionally upset to resume her career "at least for the next 10 years.

The 37-year-old singer is suing the Howard Johnson chain for $5 million, charging lack of security led to the attack by an intruder in her motel room at Westbury on Long Island in November 1974.

Dr. Lawrence Kaplan, associate visiting neurologist at Mount Sinai Hospital, testified Tuesday that the rape had left an "emotional scar," and

"The prognosis for her resuming her career is guarded."

Miss Francis became upset as the psychiatrist testified about his sessions with her, saying she felt "ashamed and dirty" after the attack and shunned relations with her husband.

The husband, Joseph Garzilli, escorted Miss Francis from the courtroom, then returned to take the stand as the final witness for Miss Francis.

Alcoholism report said too cruel

EVANSTON, Ill. (AP) - A Michigan authority on the treatment of alcoholism terms cruel a study by the Rand Corp. which found that some al-coholics can return to "normal

'It is cruel to bring out a report that is so much at variance with wide experience," said Dr. Richard C. Bates of Lansing, an internist who has treated alcoholism and other addictions for 18

Bates, chairman of the Michigan state medical society's committee on alcoholism and drug addiction, spoke at the Midwest Institute of Alcohol Studies, hosted by Northwestern University.

Sponsors of the annual institute are universities and departments of public health in Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, Ohio and Wisconsin.

Bates said in a telephone interview Tuesday that there is no scientific way to determine whether an alcoholic can drink safely, and that the recent Rand study followed alcoholics for only 18 months.

"It suggests to alcoholics that they have been sold a bill of goods" by those who have been treating them, he said. He said also that it "frightens all of us" in the field of alcoholism treatment because it leads alcoholics to believe that they can drink socially.

Remodling set for state pen

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Still more remodeling is planned at the 142-year-about 800. old Ohio Penitentiary here as a new reception center already underway nears completion. The new center, scheduled for occupancy July 12, will be housed in the five east cellblocks on which refurbishing began in March, said Robert Baker, information officer for the Department of Rehabilitation and Correction.

He said the latest decision to modernize the west side of the old structure was made because the department already had a work gang in the facility and felt it expedient to use the crew on the west while it is in Columbus.

The reception center scheduled to open next month will replace a similar facility for male inmates at the Chillicothe Correctional Institute. The average inmate population of 550 in Chillicothe will be added to the 250inmate hospital now in the Columbus

But, Baker said, when all remodeling is complete the facility could house about 1,700 prisoners, although he says there are no plans now to use the facility for inmates other than hospital patients and those being processed through reception.
